NEW HAMPSHIRE
DEPARTMENT OF STATE

June 10, 1997

To the Citizens of New Hampshire:

The publication of the 1997 Manual for the General Court marks the 55th volume published in odd-numbered years since 1889. It includes general information about state government and the 1996 election results of the February presidential primary, the September state primary and the November general election.

As the final edition this century to include presidential primary statistics, there is a memorable special section written by former Governor Hugh Gregg (1953-55) covering the history and highlights of previous primaries. He has also taken an in depth look at the 1996 primary explaining what happened and how and who ran and why.

A milestone in our political history was reached in the 1996 state election when voters, for the first time, elected a woman, Jeanne Shaheen, as governor. This was twenty years after Dudley Dudley became the first woman elected an Executive Councilor. One month later, in December of 1996, the House of Representatives chose Donna Sytek as its first woman speaker. This was 14 years after the state senate chose Vesta Roy as the first woman senate president. The first women to be elected clerk of the Senate, Gloria Randlett, and of the House, Karen Wadsworth, were both re-elected in 1996. A special section commemorating the 75th anniversary of a woman's right to vote in state elections, with an insert provided by the New Hampshire Order of Women Legislators, begins on page 481.

This edition also gives special recognition to Daniel J. Healy of Manchester, the Dean of the New Hampshire House of Representatives. He was elected to his 26th term in 1996, the most of any person in the state's history. His fellow members took a collection among themselves for a portrait to be hung in the State House. With the substantial generosity of his fellow Judiciary committee member Richard Kennedy of Contoocook, the portrait was made possible, and on the last day of the 1996 session (June 13), with his colleagues present, it was unveiled in Representatives Hall. Nine speakers of the house and four governors were also present. A photograph of the portrait and Representative Healy appears at the bottom of this page. A photograph of the speakers and governors present at the unveiling and other photographs from that day are on the following pages.

Merrill (Governor 1993-97), Hugh Gregg (Governor 1953-55), Walter Peterson (Governor 1969-73; Speaker 1965-69), George B. Roberts, Jr. (Speaker 1975-80), Lane Dwinell (Governor 1955-59; Speaker 1951-53), John B. Tucker (Speaker 1980-86), Marshall W. Cobleigh (Speaker 1969-73), W. Douglas Scamman, Jr. (Speaker 1986-90), Richard F. Upton (Speaker 1949-51).

The late Richard F. Upton, former House Speaker (1949-51) addressing the joint convention on June 13, 1996. He was the author of the modern day presidential primary law that allows voters to vote directly for the presidential candidate of their choice. During his tribute to Representative Healy, he reminded the House and Senate members of his lifetime motto: "To thine own self be true." A transcript of all remarks on June 13th can be found in the 1996 House Journal pp. 1124-1132.

Rep. Healy being congratulated by House Judiciary Committee chairman Robert A. Lockwood (middle) and committee member Richard E. Kennedy (left).

James Aponovich of Nashua, the artist who painted the portrait of Rep. Healy addresses the June 13, 1996 joint convention.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S FIRST-IN-THE-NATION PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY ITS GENESIS AND OPERATION

From the founding of our Republic until the introduction of national political conventions in 1831, candidates for president and vice president were named by congressional caucus or other methods chosen by the House of Representatives.

That same year, the Republican members of the New Hampshire Legislature elected their delegates to the first National Republican Convention in Baltimore, where Henry Clay received the Republican presidential nomination. Following his defeat by Democrat Andrew Jackson, those early Republicans disbanded. Most of them joined the Whigs and did not reappear as a formal political party until their 1856 Republican National Convention in Philadelphia.

Beginning in 1831, except for the Republicans that year, New Hampshire chose delegates interested in or committed to certain presidential candidates at town caucuses held throughout the state, then sent them to the state conventions of their respective political parties. The state party conventions, in turn, selected from the delegates those who would attend the party's national convention where the party's presidential nominee was eventually determined.

By the late 1800s the railroad lobbyists wielded a powerful influence over the state's government. New Hampshire's Winston Churchill writes eloquently of that plight in his historical novel, Coniston. People became alienated from the entrenched political power brokers who had succeeded to the upper crust of society. Nationally, the Progressive Movement was also fighting the political bosses who controlled nominations, thus controlling elections. It was probably in reaction to the exclusionary practices of this era that reform became inevitable.

In 1913, the nominating procedure was changed definitively when the New Hampshire Legislature substituted a presidential primary for the caucus system. This law allowed any potential delegate to be listed on a statewide ballot for election to the national convention. A candidate was permitted to sign up either as "pledged" to a particular presidential candidate or as "uncommitted."

Unexplainably, Manual for the General Court #15 published in 1917, asserts a presidential primary was held in 1912. It was conducted by the rejuvenated Republican party, which had been founded by Amos Tuck at Exeter, New Hampshire in 1853. Apparently it was an unofficial primary in which only its members participated. No record of the results is given.

The date of the first official primary was to have been the third Tuesday of May, 1916, but at the 1915 legislative session, the date was moved up to coincide with traditional town meeting day, the second Tuesday of March. Upon reconsideration, frugal New Hampshireites had realized it was wasteful to light the Town Hall twice.

In 1916, a week prior to the state's holding its first primary, Indiana conducted theirs and Minnesota voted on the same day as New Hampshire. By the next presidential election cycle, four years later, Indiana had changed its date to May and Minnesota had discontinued its primary altogether. Thus, since 1920 until 1996, the New Hampshire presidential primary has always been first in the nation by at least a week. Coincidentally, it was also in 1920 that the Congress passed the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, granting nationwide suffrage to women.

On March 9, 1920, it was Leonard Woods' delegates who won the Republican primary. A favorite son born in Winchester, New Hampshire, Woods had been military commander of Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders. Yet, it was Warren G. Harding, not Woods, who received the party's nomination at the Chicago Convention. Four years later in 1924, the slate of delegates for Calvin Coolidge, who had been Vice President at the time of Harding's death, was victorious, and his election began a trend for New Hampshire's winners succeeding to the White House.

In 1944 a mere 18% of the registered voters turned out, and in 1948 only 27%. Thus, in the 1949 legislative session, Speaker Richard Upton, desiring to make the primary "more interesting and meaningful ... so there would be a greater turnout at the polls," initiated a widening of the primary process which permitted the voter to state preferences for presidential and vice presidential selections. By submitting fifty supportive petitions from each of the two congressional districts, any candidate's name could be entered on the ballot. Unless a name so submitted was withdrawn by request of the candidate, it remained on the ballot. As the procedure was informational only, with no legal effect on the ultimate election, it was called "the beauty contest" and immediately caught favorable national media attention. The new law also required that delegates receive prior approval from their candidate before filing as "pledged" and created a new designation of "favorable" which did not require the candidate's consent.

All of these additional provisions were first exercised in the 1952 election, which date is sometimes incorrectly considered as the beginning of the tradition of the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

In the first "beauty contest" in 1952, General Dwight D. Eisenhower defeated Senator Robert Taft on the Republican ballot, 46,661 to 35,838. Senator Estes Kefauver upset President Harry Truman on the Democratic side by a vote of 19,600 to 15,957.

In 1971 the number of signatures required from each of the two congressional districts was boosted from 50 to 500 and payment of a $500 fee became a further requirement for presidential candidate filings. By 1976 voter participation had grown so intense that 391 delegates and alternate delegates filed. With the ballot so cumbersome, the 1977 Legislature entirely eliminated delegate filings. In place, it provided that any presidential candidate who received 10% of the total vote cast by his party would be allotted his choice of a proportional number of the total delegates assigned to his party.

The new system still in effect in 1996 requires each presidential candidate to submit, prior to election day, a list of those persons he wishes to represent him as his delegation to the party convention. Those individuals, in turn, are required to submit to the Secretary of State a certificate identifying their domicile, alleging their qualifications as voters, as registered members of the same party as the candidate, and a pledge to support that candidate at the National Convention for as long as that candidate remains before it.

Following the election the Secretary determines the number of delegates won by each candidate and notifies the candidate, who must then select from the previously submitted longer list those who will be his designated delegates and alternate delegates at the convention.

In 1975, after an unsuccessful effort was made to introduce a New England regional primary to be held on the first Tuesday of March, the New Hampshire Legislature moved its primary back to that date or, in the alternative, on the Tuesday immediately preceding the date on which any other New England state should hold a similar election, whichever is earlier. Consequently, in 1976, New Hampshire actually held its election on the last Tuesday in February, to precede Vermont and Massachusetts which held theirs on the first Tuesday of March.

In 1977, to eliminate any possible future encroachment on the state's tradition of being first, the Legislature further amended the law setting the election date to read, "On the second Tuesday of March, immediately preceding the date on which any other state shall hold a similar election, whichever is earlier..." By taking this action the traditional town meeting date and the presidential primary date were once again identical as they had been in 1916.

In 1983 the Legislature no longer required petitions for the presidential candidates to qualify for ballot listing, but the filing fee was increased to $1,000. This change made it convenient for so-called "fringe candidates" to join the race.

In 1992 the state of Delaware, anxious to share in the limelight of New Hampshire's proven success, passed a law providing that its presidential primary would be held on "the first Saturday after the presidential primary conducted by the State of New Hampshire." New Hampshire always felt it necessary to preserve a full week between its event and that of any subsequent primary to allow the candidates sufficient time to restructure their campaign strategies based on the New Hampshire returns. A lesser candidate could get an enormous boost from an unexpected victory, or even a near-victory. Conversely, losers may decide to quit the race, thus winnowing the field. The media gain ample time to analyze the election results, particularly in Sunday newspaper editions and weekend television shows, which can also be very helpful to an unexpected victor.

For these reasons, the 1996 Legislature tightened the law once more by providing the primary would be held "on the Tuesday at least seven days immediately preceding the date on which any other state shall hold a similar election, whichever is earlier." In 1996, because some other states had moved their primaries up to February 27, New Hampshire's Secretary of State set the date of February 20 for the election.

Nonetheless, Delaware persisted and held its primary on February 24, the Saturday following the New Hampshire primary. New Hampshire came to terms with that decision because the Secretary of State determined the Delaware primary was not "similar" within the meaning of the law. Six of the nine major Republican candidates, and Democratic candidate President Clinton, had chosen not to file in the Delaware primary in deference to New Hampshire's tradition and its request they not campaign there. Moreover, Delaware failed to recognize the Libertarian Party, whereas there were two Libertarian candidates on the New Hampshire ticket.

It is a bit of ironic history that when candidates sign up for the New Hampshire primary at the office of the Secretary of State, they do so on a repatriated bird's-eye maple desk which had been repurchased by the State of New Hampshire from a Delaware museum in the 1970s for $5,000. The antique piece, which the state commissioned for $16, had been created in 1819 by a Concord craftsman as a furnishing for the opening of the New Hampshire State House.

Also in 1996 the New Hampshire presidential primary allowed election-day registration for the first time. This resulted in 26,622 new voters, with 74% of the registered Republicans participating and, even when incumbent President Clinton was not substantially opposed on the Democratic ballot, 45% of the Democrats voted. This national high-record turnout, almost twice that of any other state, is a tribute to the accumulated legislative changes made over the years to stimulate voter participation in the state's presidential primary process. The state has consistently led the nation in voter turnout. The popularity of the New Hampshire primary has been further demonstrated by the fact that 67 presidential candidates filed in 1992, and 45 in 1996.

Another significant feature to the state's case for ease of ballot access is that New Hampshire is the only state in the country that permits a candidate to file for the office of Vice President. In fact, by paying the filing fees, the same candidate is allowed to file for both the presidency and the vice presidency. In 1984 Gerald Willis and in 1988 David E. Duke, both Democrats, did file simultaneously for both offices. Willis got fifty votes for president and 14,870 for vice president. Duke got 264 for president and 10,531 for vice president.

Highlights of Primary History

1952

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose previous party affiliation was unknown, was commanding NATO in Europe when his name was placed on the Republican ballot by friends in New Hampshire. He defeated long-time Republican leader, Senator Robert A. Taft. Ike never came into the state during the primary. New Hampshire Governor Sherman Adams became his Chief of Staff in the White House.

On the Democratic side, Senator Estes Kefauver, snowmobiling in his coonskin cap, upset incumbent President Harry S. Truman who was thus discouraged from running for reelection.

1956

When Eisenhower was up for a second term and Richard M. Nixon was his vice president, it was commonly known that Ike did not want Nixon on the reelection ticket. On their own, Nixon's Republican friends, led by Senator Styles Bridges, engineered a vice-presidential write-in effort for Nixon, which garnered 22,936 votes, thus assuring Nixon's place on the Eisenhower team.

1960

The University of New Hampshire had invited Senator John F. Kennedy to be the keynote speaker at a convocation the day before the primary. Kennedy's only opponent on the Democratic ballot, Paul C. Fisher, uninvited and claiming discrimination, barged into the party and delivered a twelve-minute address on his platform to abolish taxes. Kennedy got 43,372 votes; Fisher garnered 6,853.

1964

While Henry Cabot Lodge was serving as Ambassador to South Vietnam, his son and friends mounted a winning write-in campaign on the Republican ballot which defeated both Senator Barry M. Goldwater and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, both of whom had stumped arduously everywhere in the Granite State. Lodge, like Eisenhower in 1952, never came to New Hampshire during the primary. Goldwater eventually won the Republican nomination then lost to Democrat Lyndon Baines Johnson in the fall general election.

In November of 1963 President Kennedy was assassinated. The country was in a state of mourning, thus there were no filings for either president or vice president on the 1964 Democratic ballot the following March. Significantly, several thousand people took the trouble to write in their votes. Lyndon Baines Johnson won with 29,317 write-ins, while Robert Kennedy, John's brother, received 25,094 write-in votes for vice president.

1968

Republican Governor of Michigan George Romney launched his presidential campaign from his summer home on Lake Winnepesaukee, only to be washed out when he said he had been "brainwashed" into favoring the Vietnam War.

Incumbent President Johnson did not file, but received write-ins totaling 50% of all Democratic votes cast. Senator Eugene McCarthy, who campaigned actively against Johnson's Vietnam war policies, was on the ballot. He received an impressive 41% of the vote and gained more delegates than the President. Johnson was so stunned that he did not run for reelection. Twenty-four years later in 1992, McCarthy ran a second time and received only 211 votes.

When Republican Richard Nixon was running for a second term as President, many party leaders felt that his Vice President, Spiro Agnew, was not a strong enough candidate for the reelection ticket. Surprisingly, Agnew picked up an all-time record high of 45,524 write-in votes for Vice President — and that settled the matter. Some time later, both men were forced to resign from office in disgrace.

In the Democratic primary, Maine Senator Edmund S. Muskie allegedly sobbed at a rally in front of the Manchester Union Leader building, while reacting to an editorial and letter relating to the Senator's wife which had been reprinted on the front page of the paper by its publisher William Loeb. Muskie defeated Senator George McGovern, 46% to 37%. Yet the media touted Muskie as the loser because they reasoned that, as a New Hampshire neighbor, his winning percentage should have been greater.

Georgia's Democratic Governor Jimmy Carter entered the New Hampshire primary as a total stranger who was referred to as "Jimmy Who?" With only a quarter of the total Democratic votes cast, he defeated Senators Morris K. Udall and Birch Bayh, and went on to win the presidency. Although Carter was totally unknown when he came into the state he won the primary, from sheer perseverance in a traditional one-on-one grass roots campaign.

In the Republican contest, with 119,880 votes cast, incumbent President Gerald R. Ford defeated former California Governor Ronald Reagan by 1,587 votes for the closest race in presidential primary history.

Republican Ronald Reagan topped George Bush and five other major candidates. Reagan had brought the five other uninvited candidates to what was scheduled as a Bush-Reagan, two-man debate in Nashua. When the host denied the "interlopers" the right to speak, Reagan stunned the crowd by taking command: "I paid for this microphone, Mr. Green!"

Congressman John B. Anderson of Illinois, a Republican, received 9.8% of the Republican vote. He needed an extra .2% to qualify for a delegate, so he called for a recount. The recount did not change the percentage and Anderson subsequently left the party, then ran in November as an Independent.

Running on the Democratic ballot, candidate Lyndon R. LaRouche received .0157% of the total Democratic votes cast. Yet he, too, called for a recount. Obviously, he still didn't win and his percentage was even less after the recount.

Incumbent Democratic President Jimmy Carter was opposed by Senator Edward M. Kennedy, who received only 10% fewer votes than the President. Carter's weak support from his own party contributed to Reagan's victory in the fall election.

1984

Democratic Senator Gary Hart bested Vice President Walter F. Mondale. Subsequently Mondale scored in the press with his repeated question to Hart, "Where's the beef?" Eventually Hart fell out of public favor because of his indiscreet relationship with Donna Rice.

1988

Republican Vice President Bush prevailed over Senator Bob Dole by his reference to Dole as "Senator Straddle," resulting in Dole's acerbic post-election response, "Stop lying about my record." Bush beat Michael Dukakis in the general election and New Hampshire Governor John Sununu became his Chief of Staff.

1992

Incumbent President George Bush was damaged though not defeated by Patrick J. Buchanan because Bush had defaulted from his earlier campaign promise, "Read my lips. No new taxes." Bush went on to lose to Democratic Arkansas Governor Clinton in the general election.

Clinton found himself in deep trouble when challenged about his relationship with Jennifer Flowers. Yet, as the "comeback kid," he survived the victory of favorite son Paul E. Tsongas from neighboring Massachusetts. Clinton thus became the only presidential candidate to succeed to the White House without first winning the New Hampshire primary.

No incumbent vice president running for reelection has ever taken the opportunity to file separately on the ballot as vice president; rather, they have always relied on the popularity of their presidential candidate to reelect them. Former Democratic Massachusetts Governor Endicott Peabody was irritated that Republican Vice President Dan Quayle did not so file. Peabody, to force a vice presidential confrontation, signed up as a Democratic candidate for vice president and, with a friend dressed in a yellow chicken suit, taunted Vice President Quayle to debate as a vice presidential competitor. Quayle never did, but Peabody got 34,633 votes.

1996

A political novice, Republican Steve Forbes allegedly spent an all-time record of approximately $3 million in his New Hampshire campaign, probably as much as the combined expenditures of his principal competitors, only to end up in fourth place. General Colin Powell, who said he would not be a candidate for president or vice president, and for whom no organized campaign was undertaken, received 6,414 Republican write-in votes.

[NOTE: A complete accounting of presidential primary election results, from 1952 through 1992, is recorded in the Appendix of the book A TALL STATE REVISITED by Hugh Gregg, published by Resources of New Hampshire, Inc. It lists all the participants, vote counts, percentages, names of delegates and alternate delegates.]

In Summary : Precedents

Richard E. Nixon holds the record for having won the most New Hampshire primaries: three, in 1960, 1968, 1972. When he ran for president in 1960 only fifteen other states and the District of Columbia had primaries.

Except for Bill Clinton in 1996, no incumbent president running for reelection who faced no significant opposition on the party's New Hampshire ballot has ever been defeated for a second term as President: Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956; Lyndon Baines Johnson in 1964; Richard E. Nixon in 1972; Ronald Reagan in 1984; Bill Clinton in 1996.

Although several women have participated in the primaries, no woman of national stature has ever filed. In 1992, Lenora B. Fulani, running as a Democrat, qualified for $642,497 in federal matching funds, yet only received 402 Democratic votes.

Former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen is the honorary grandfather of the New Hampshire presidential primary, having been on the ballot six times, beginning in 1948, with a pledged delegate who didn't win.

Resulting from their primary campaign chairmanships two sitting New Hampshire governors, Sherman Adams and John Sununu, were appointed Chiefs of Staff at the White House.

Recognized Political Parties

Presidential primary ballots are prepared exclusively for designated political parties and all candidates listed on them must be members of those parties. For a "political organization" to qualify as a recognized political party, and to participate in a presidential primary, it must first have received at least 3% of the total number of votes cast for the Office of Governor at the preceding state general election.

In the presidential primaries from 1952 through 1988 only the Republican and Democratic parties qualified. The Libertarian Party also became eligible for a place on the ballot in 1992 and 1996.

Disputed Elections - Recounts

The official procedure for counting the ballots is initially within the responsibility of the town and ward moderators. Disputes may thereafter be referred to the Secretary of State. Within five days after the election, any person of any party for whom a vote was cast at the presidential primary may ask for a recount. Only two recounts have been held since 1952, both in 1980.

The fee for a presidential recount is $500. But subject to other restrictions not detailed here, the complainant will usually have to pay the entire cost of the recount if he lost by more than one percent of the votes cast. On the other hand, if he wins by reason of the recount, then he is refunded all fees paid at the time of filing.

The Secretary and his assistants conduct the recount. The candidates, their counsel and assistants have the right to inspect the ballots and participate in it.

If dissatisfied with the ruling of the Secretary of State, a candidate may appeal to the three-member Ballot Law Commission for a hearing on the questions involved. In most areas of ballot disputes the Commission has the final decision-making authority to settle such issues.

Effect of Party Rules on Presidential Primaries

Regardless of when the legislatures of the individual states decide to hold their presidential primaries, the candidates they select are still subject to the rules of their respective parties. The Democratic National Committee has a rule which prohibits the holding of any Democratic presidential primary, except New Hampshire's, prior to the first Tuesday of March. The penalty for any state moving its primary before March would be that any Democratic delegates so elected would not be seated at the Democratic National Convention. The Republican Party has no similar rule.

Democratic National Chairman Don Fowler, supporting New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary, said, "It's retail politics. It gives average people an opportunity to meet and judge the candidates on a personal basis. In a sense the people of New Hampshire are surrogates for the rest of the country."

It is only as a result of this Democratic rule that the other states continue to recognize New Hampshire's tradition of being the earliest to hold its primary.

“Frontloading” in 1996

In 1996 New Hampshire held its primary on February 20 and twenty-seven other states held theirs within a five-week period thereafter, ending on March 26. The acceleration of these elections made it impossible for the candidates to schedule sufficient campaign time in those states, limiting them to target mailings, TV/radio advertising and hasty airport receptions.

THE PRIMACY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE'S FIRST-IN-THE-NATION ELECTION

Every four years for nearly half a century, New Hampshire has captured national headlines with its first-in-the-nation presidential primary, and enlivened the process of electing our presidents. Being first hardly explains its consistent appeal. The state has singular geographic, governmental and communal characteristics not found anywhere else, much of which accounts for its perpetual political attraction.

It is a relatively small state, with the bulk of its 1,147,000 population concentrated in a fifty-mile band which extends 125 miles from the seacoast to Vermont, along the southern border by Massachusetts. Two major airports are conveniently located within the fifty-mile band which provides convenient access for candidates with countrywide travel schedules.

It is compact, easy to traverse, replete with diverse communities and their equally-versatile inhabitants engaged in a wide diversity of employment. The region to the north is a splendid mixture of spectacular mountains and sparkling lakes, of scenic beauty for which the state is world renown. It is this North Country which shapes the Granite State's public image, and serves as nature's rich backdrop for the visiting media.

We inhabit a small, homogeneous area where our citizens enjoy a unity of purpose and quality of life unequalled elsewhere. We honor the right of privacy and the privilege of “doing our own thing.” We abhor big government and resist it to what extent we can. The welcome mat is always out, not only from the citizens as individuals, but at the government level where major presidential candidates are invited to address the entire Legislature at the State House.

New Hampshirites probably have more and broader experience with elections than most Americans, as one of only two states that limit its governors to a two-year term. State Archivist Frank C. Mevers says, “New Hampshire has elected more governors than any other state in the nation.” To keep the Governor in check we elect five Executive Councilors, chosen statewide by districts, who hold a veto power over the Chief Executive on his appointments and the awarding of state contracts. A general statewide election for these offices is held every other year.

We're proud of our 400-member state legislature, largest in the country, also elected biennially. Concurrently, we fill eighty offices within our ten counties. This creates a major reshuffling of local candidates even in the off-years when there is no presidential election. Annual town meetings are conducted throughout the state, where citizens choose their selectmen, town clerks, planning boards, checklist supervisors, and a myriad of other local officials responsible for administering their communities.

It is doubtful that any other state conducts as many elections with greater frequency. In 1995-96, Manchester, the state's largest city, held six citywide elections during a period of twelve months. We're always in an election mode; it's a way of life for our citizens that results not only in extensive political experience but a very serious approach to participatory involvement in government at all levels. Our tradition of political vitality goes way back to 1888 when 91% of the state's 99,432 registered voters cast their votes for governor.

We're a strong home-rule state where people take part in civic affairs with enthusiasm. Political leadership comes from the grass roots, complemented by a plethora of unpaid commissions supervising many vital agencies of state government, all as a part of our unique governmental structure. At some time during their life most New Hampshire residents will have held either an elective or an appointive public office.

During the quadrennial presidential primary season, national candidates spend considerable time in the state, allowing real voters the rare and invaluable opportunity of getting to know them on a personal level. Most campaigns start at least a year before election day. Traditionally, candidates have made the effort to shake hands and meet face-to-face with as many people as time allows. They work long days, walk the streets, rap on doors, stand in town squares or on street corners, address service groups, using every conceivable method of individual contact with the New Hampshire voter. The only candidate who ever won here without following this time-tested procedure and became president was General Eisenhower.

Thus, our choices are made on the basis of direct acquaintance, not from packaged media salesmanship. As one former governor expressed it, "We expect to see the candidates, touch them, feel them, and smell them." We select individuals who display exceptional character in terms of reliability, integrity, and leadership. We develop what amounts to a "visceral" feeling about the candidates. The character of the person is often more important than the issues.

That we are discerning in assessing their potential is indicated by our experience over the years in correctly identifying the next president, while eliminating the weaker candidates whose efforts are usually terminated here, or soon thereafter. Columnist David Broder said it well, "I am firmly of the belief that the term 'front runner' should never be applied to anyone until the voters in New Hampshire have performed their God-given right to sort out and shrink the presidential nomination field."

Only once since the start of the primaries have we made a misjudgment. The winner in 1992 who didn't make it to the White House was favored solely because he was a well-known U.S. Senator from a neighboring state. Brian Lamb, president of C-Span, said our primary is "always going to be important ... because you're smart enough to figure out for yourselves if a candidate is pulling your chain."

Up here the candidate also gets measured by the weather. We figure that any foreigner who can slosh around in our snowdrifts without catching pneumonia or distemper can withstand the rigors of the presidency. The only other small primary state which might match that challenge would be North Dakota, but they honor our tradition by scheduling their primary a week after ours and mail in their ballots.

Because the candidates have more campaign time here, they frequently visit our high schools and colleges. Teachers devote classroom hours to the primary process and mock elections are held, where the candidates appear. Questions asked by students differ markedly from those of the standard press conference. Such opportunities not only serve to excite fresh perspectives, but provide the candidate with support from first-time voters, many of whom would otherwise have no interest in the primary process.

Since the mid-1800s when New Hampshire's Franklin Pierce, a Democrat, was President, the state has generally elected Republicans as its leaders at all levels of government. After the introduction of the presidential primary, voter registration has consistently held a rough average of 38% Republican, 32% Democrat, and 30% Independent. This has provided a sound sampling for either a Republican or Democratic primary.

Further, this nearly equilibrant distribution of political representation creates a favorable testing ground for the platform of all presidential candidates. Republicans and Democrats are restricted to voting only for the respective candidates of their own party. Independents may pick up the ballot of either party, thereby allowing substantial effect on election results.

Voters who choose to register as Independents have the flexibility of voting in either the Republican or Democratic primary. Once they've made such selection on election day, they can revert to Independent status, not committed to a political party. For those who are handicapped or otherwise unable to go to the polls on election day, New Hampshire encourages absentee voting.

Registration may also be accomplished on the day of the election simply by providing identification as a resident in the appropriate voting precinct. Consistently, over the years, New Hampshire has led the country in the percentage of votes cast in presidential primaries.

Within the mix of Republicans, Democrats and Independents, there is an equally good spread of liberals, moderates, and conservatives. While relatively new on the political scene with less than 1% of registered voters, the Libertarian party has shown strength in New Hampshire, having elected more legislative members than elsewhere. Again this is a tribute to the political sophistication and prudence of the New Hampshire voter.

Presidential candidates find ballot access in New Hampshire to be exceptionally easy compared to other states. In most jurisdictions, the names appearing on the ballot are determined by the secretary of state, a special committee, or by petitions from registered voters, thus, making it difficult for the unknown or under-financed candidate to participate in their primaries. Other than adhering to the constitutional requirements of being 35 years old, a natural-born citizen of the United States, and living in the country for fourteen years, anyone willing to pay a fee of $1,000 who is a member of a political party recognized in New Hampshire can have his name on the ballot.

We offer a level playing field to anyone who aspires to the presidency. Winning candidates are permitted to select their own delegates to their national convention. They not only can choose their delegates, but are apportioned based on the percentage of votes received at the polls. The candidate who works hard but does not win will still be entitled to some representation at his national convention, providing he received at least 10% of the total votes cast by his party. New Hampshire has never had a winner-take-all system, used by an increasing number of states whereby the runners-up get nothing.

To give every candidate equal opportunity at all precincts, the law requires rotation of their names on the ballot so that everyone gets a turn being listed at the top of the ballot an equal number of times. It is a system accomplished randomly by computer, offering the lesser-known competitors a chance for improved name identification.

It's relatively inexpensive to campaign in New Hampshire. Because of the compactness of the area, most candidates have operated out of a single headquarters in Manchester or Concord, from which they can readily service all parts of the state. An effective organization can be run with a smaller paid staff than in larger states. An unlimited supply of experienced volunteers is always available here. Travel requirements are reduced as buses are commonly used to move the campaign entourage.

To save money, candidates often choose to seek lodging in the homes of supporters, who are more than willing to host coffees and receptions for them as well. Even fringe candidates have been accommodated by being allowed to stay in churches, private residences, or college dormitories.

Media costs are considerably less. We have only one major commercial television station that covers the entire state, one statewide newspaper, eight regional dailies, the usual assortment of local weekly newspapers and radio stations. Customarily, candidates' contacts with voters in other states are limited to television sound bites, large public indoor events, or greetings on airport tarmacs. Because we meet them one-on-one, as frequently as we wish, we are not unduly influenced by political advertising. That you cannot purchase victory in the Granite State through television and radio was an expensive lesson learned by Steve Forbes in 1996.

A major advantage for the candidate is the extensive concentration of national and international media, who schedule accommodations a year in advance to stay here for the last week of the primary. While national press coverage is spotty in the early stages of a candidate's campaign, local reporters track his every visit from the time of his announcement. Near election day, when there's a saturation of media, it is occasionally true, as William Safire, wrote in the New York Times, that candidates "are unable to climb over a cameraman to touch a voter." But their presence translates into free television, radio and print exposure.

Best of all, publicity from New Hampshire comes early in the national race, offering quick countrywide name identification for the candidate who might otherwise remain relatively obscure. Noted by CNN's anchorman Bernard Shaw, "It's important for journalists to listen to real voters express their views."

The media enjoy coming here. They make capital of our renowned covered bridges, wrinkled apple orchards and fragrant sugar houses — ideal photo opportunities in which to capture eager candidates. For example, when George Bush was campaigning here in 1992, he disembarked from his limousine to shake hands with a cow. The next day, the photo was on the front page of the New York Times. A few days later Newsweek published one in full color.

While some candidates may not qualify for considerable network time, our small local newspapers and radio talk shows enthusiastically give maximum exposure to all competitors, regardless of their position in the polls. Using these sources, candidates frequently come up with ideas that help frame political debate as they utilize such cost-free medium for presenting them to the voter.

Years of experience have made it easy for out-of-state media to piggyback with our facilities. National television crews merge with ours; radio and print press move in with local peers; C-Span, CNN, and PBS find adequate space to establish temporary studios. The political pundits tell us how comfortable and convenient it is for them to cover the state from a location in Manchester or Concord.

It's a cherished bit of history that our first real experience with national media occurred in 1948 when the twelve registered voters of Hart's Location, a town in Crawford Notch, cast their votes at one minute after midnight of election day. Even though it occurred in the very early days of television, the story of casting the first ballots in a presidential race received instant cross-country publicity. The residents continued voting first until 1964, when the precedent shifted. It is now carried on by the citizens of Dixville Notch, another small White Mountains community. Dixville has been proclaimed by the Governor and Executive Council as the official start of our first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

A successful statewide campaign can be run in the Granite State for $500,000. Presidential candidates who qualify for federal funds, as most of them do, are limited to a relatively small spending cap, $618,200 in 1996. The federal limit in larger states is substantially higher. Neighboring Massachusetts had a cap of $2,295,748 in 1996. In such states, the candidate is required to substitute an inordinate amount of valuable "hand-shaking time" for fundraising events. Presidential campaign fundraising dinners are seldom held here.

Polling has become so widespread that candidates tend to rely on it to identify popular issues for inclusion in their campaign platforms. The surveys are normally based on relatively small group samplings, up to a thousand people. Smaller focus groups sometimes serve the same purpose. New Hampshire, however, with its urban and rural population, offers a far more objective and diversified base to gauge public opinion. Well before election day, the candidates working here get a real sense of what's important and what will "resonate." After the only poll that really counts, the one on election day, the candidate has learned from New Hampshire what adjustments must be made in order to proceed in the big national race. Through a relatively easy and inexpensive campaign, he discovers whether he has the substance to survive subsequent primaries.

The Secret Service often plays a vital part in the New Hampshire presidential process. Some candidates, if they are entitled to it, welcome the utility it provides in creating a presidential ambiance for their entourage. Experience has demonstrated, however, that most candidates view it as a restriction of their mobility. When an incumbent president or vice president runs, restriction is mandatory.

To gain early Secret Service protection a request must be made to a special Congressional committee. If granted, security has been arranged as early as a month before election day, but is usually not provided until within proximity of the day itself. If a candidate wins or remains in the competition after the election here, then he is normally assigned agents for as long as he remains a viable competitor in the national race.

Here again is a distinct New Hampshire advantage in that without Secret Service a candidate needs no preplanned itineraries and can meet the voters in any environment. After New Hampshire, along with the many benefits which the Service provides, the candidate must also accept the restraints. For in-face campaigning the state offers the best opportunity of getting closer to the electorate.

The Lesser Known Candidates Who File In New Hampshire

The primary's increased popularity and easy access have encouraged a number of lesser known or so-called "fringe" candidates to participate. In 1992 there were only seven major candidates running for president, yet sixty other names were on the ballot. In addition to ten majors in 1996, thirty-five others sought the job. The distinction between a major and a fringe candidate is an arbitrary one made by the national media. To be rated as a "major" by the media, a candidate must have the source of enough money to support a national campaign or have held major public elective or appointive office. All others are referred to as "fringe."

Perhaps the standards used by the national media to gauge key presidential competitors need revision. In 1992 Democratic candidate Larry Agran was angry to have been deemed "fringe" and ignored by the national press, even though he was a Harvard Law School graduate, a published author, and had served twelve years as mayor of Irvine, California. Roger Mudd, reporting on Agran's presidential aspirations on the MacNeil-Lehrer News Hour, made the unfortunate comment, "It does stretch credulity to think that a Jewish ex-mayor of a small California town can make it."

In 1996, both Alan Keyes, known primarily as an author-speaker and Ambassador to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, and "Morry" Taylor, recognized principally as a successful millionaire businessman, were considered major candidates and saturated with media attention. Agran had received 331 votes in 1992, yet even with all their public attention and press-covered appearances in 1996, Keyes received only 5,572, and Taylor 2,944. How many votes would Agran have garnered had he received equal treatment for the public's attention?

Many colorful people or those with bizarre ideas have either joined the race in past years or have come to New Hampshire only to be deterred by the $1,000 filing fee. Austin Burton (alias Chief Burning Wood) once tried to pay his fee by mailing the Secretary of State a package of wampum, a four-foot length of snakeskin. Dressed as Uncle Sam and hurrying from Massachusetts in a Japanese car to meet the filing deadline, Sam Rouseville got nabbed for speeding in Manchester and didn't make it to Concord.

Jack Mabardy wanted the government to devise a training course to prevent a possible takeover by UFOs. Princess Runningwaters arrived decked out in animal skins. Arthur O. Blessitt lugged a colossal wooden cross across the state. Roger Durett, costumed in the familiar white suit, was not permitted to file as Mark Twain, nor to represent the Mugwump party. Willie Felix Carter, a black church deacon from Texas, said he was "a son of the Lord Jesus Christ ... the Lord showed me a vision ... to become President."

Russell Fornwalt recommended the military should occupy high schools to prevent violence. "Love 22" handed out $22 dollar bills with his Uncle Sam likeness centered on the currency as if he were Thomas Jefferson. Inventor Paul Fisher made friends by giving away his pressurized Fisher Space Pens that can write upside down. "Milko" said he was Robingood. Robert F. Drucker wrote a book to promote the revision of our federal Constitution to form a new government and currency system, linking North America, Central America and the Caribbean basin. Poet Ray Rollinson claimed to be the grandson of Crazy Horse and his wife was the "Magic Princess."

Democrat Lyndon H. LaRouche who had run here in 1980, 1988, and 1992, returned in 1996 after five years in the federal pen for mail fraud and conspiracy, to attack the "unbalanced minds" of Republican leadership in Washington. Libertarian Irwin Schiff who had spent three years in jail said he was a "political prisoner" because there is no law requiring the payment of income taxes and he hadn't. Felons aren't allowed to vote but they can run for president — a curious dichotomy.

Frank B. Legas, the "common sense candidate" from California, found a congenial home by running a classified ad in the Concord Monitor describing himself as a "frugal presidential candidate. Quiet, non-smoking, attends daily Mass." He proposed an 800 number "national opinion survey" to contact all voters for their views on critical issues and to give legislative direction to the Congress. Both Legas and his cabinet would serve for $1 per year and he "would not serve a second term unless 85% of the voters requested that."

David Pauling's forty-page tract, "The Truth If You Can Handle It!" was sold for $5 — "less if you can't afford it, more if you can." William Flanagan would allow a $50 federal tax credit for anyone who would adopt an animal, $100 if neutered. Democrat Ben Tomeo sent the President and members of Congress a lengthy dissertation entitled, The Most Incredible Material and Spiritual Wrong Story Ever Told. He believed his evidence "would have derailed" Clinton's election in 1992. A songwriter, he promoted his talent with audiocassettes of country music. Vermin Supreme wearing a boot on his head and carrying a giant toothbrush called himself "the friendly fascist, a tyrant you can trust." Fred Stinick was the "Messiah" and handed out business cards promising "Zillions for all the world."

Others had novel slogans. Afro-American Lenora Fulani said she was "A leader of a different color." When Caroline Killeen, an environmentalist, was running against George Bush, it was, "America needs trees, not bushes." When she ran against Clinton, it was, "Let Clinton inhale." Dick Bosa urged you not to spell his name backwards. Sal Casamassima used "Be Unreasonable! — For a Change." As a dark horse competitor, Ronald W. Spangler called himself "The Murky Man." Perhaps the most subtle catchwords came from professional comedian, Pat Paulsen, "We can't stand pat."

In 1996 forty-five individuals signed up to participate in the primary, which included ten major and thirty-five fringe candidates. Twenty-two registered as Republicans, twenty-one as Democrats. There were also two Libertarians, who were counted as fringe. Five women and two blacks filed.

The lesser known competitors listed various occupations. There were ten authors, three lawyers, two businessmen, two software programmers, two mayors, two registered nurses, a minister, a doctor, a CPA, an aircraft mechanic, an AIDs activist, a former FBI agent, a professional comedian, a building contractor, a public relations counselor, a former nun, an investment consultant, a real estate broker, a process server and a sign language interpreter. Included in the group were two men who had been confined to federal prison, a homosexual, a lesbian, and two men over eighty years old, one of whom was eighty-seven.

The first potential candidate who declared for the 1996 election was a marine veteran from Georgia whose ad in the July 4, 1993 edition of the New Hampshire Sunday News announced: "Tate for President, Republican, '96." He was never heard from again. Jack Trinsey mailed a $10 check to the Secretary of State as his $1,000 filing fee on the theory that the fee was in reality a poll tax in violation of his constitutional rights. When the $10 was rejected, Trinsey sued the Secretary in the Merrimack Superior Court. The court found for the state and the plaintiff never offered an additional $990.

Some potential candidates came to the state, campaigned, and had every intention of entering the fray, but encountered problems which prevented their filing. Robert Edward Haines had received instant national fame at Washington in October of 1994 when he assisted in tackling a gunman who had fired a few rounds at the White House. He began his 1996 campaign by showing up at our State House in January of 1995 wearing a white cowboy hat and a belt buckle. He identified himself as an honorary Texas Ranger. He was later jailed in Manchester for wearing a bullet-proof vest and brandishing a rifle. Then he couldn't raise enough money for his legal defense fund, so that he could continue his campaign based on the theme: "To make America a safe place to live."

A newcomer who didn't make it to the Secretary of State's office was Tom Shellenberg. A certified public accountant, he had sold his home and business to raise about $30,000 to invest in his campaign. For a contribution of $100 or more he offered a free copy of his book, Balance the Budget Now & How. The title didn't explain whether the government's budget or his was being balanced. C-Span told his story on its weekly program, Road To The White House. After no one showed up for his appearance at Dover City Hall, frustrated and running out of cash he concluded that his message of balancing the budget was not resonating with the voters. He gave up saying, "The adventure was worthwhile.... Many lessons were learned."

Another professional who did not last to the filing period was Dr. Myron Schoenfeld, a cardiologist, Phi Beta Kappa, and recipient of a distinguished Alumnus Award from the Chicago Medical School. He promised to be a "citizen-president" and campaigned as "a white knight uncontaminated with the corruption of politics-as-usual." He strove to be "doctor to the nation" and prove that anyone can become president. Yet, after a whirlwind canvass of the state during which he spent nearly $50,000 of his own money, and unable to raise additional funds from fellow doctors, he concluded that maybe anyone could not become president.

A number of candidates deliberately ran aggressive campaigns for write-in votes because they did not want their names on the ballot. Several of them actually used paid advertising while others ballyhooed their messages with "standouts" in front of shopping centers. Some distributed well-designed promotional material. Jack Mabardy, who said he'd made between 45-65 visits to the southern part of the state, was typical of that group. He considered himself "gifted" and was "so much in touch with various avenues of reality" about which the average person had no concept. His reason for not wanting to file formally was because "there are too many people on the ballot." His platform included enacting federal laws of life imprisonment for anyone who abused or tortured birds, domestic or wild animals, or even hunters who shot deer.

Personal Profiles of Selected Fringe Candidates on the 1996 Primary Ballot

An intensive effort was made to record on both audio and video tape interviews with as many of the fringe candidates as could be contacted, either at the time of filing or later for those who filed by mail. Their correspondence, campaign promotional material and newsclips were also collected and may be found at the state archives. There follows a personal profile on selected members of the fringe group.

Michael Levinson

Buffalo, New York
Republican
Age 54

*"I have always believed since I was four years old
I was going to be President of the United States."*

A former seaman, poet, author of the analogical Book ov Lev, Michael Levinson traded in the red-and-black hunter jacket and coonskin cap he wore in the 1992 New Hampshire primary campaign for a brown straw hat, flowered scarf, shirt and tie in 1996. "Anytime you do a good deed, you put a nickel in God's bank. The president has the chance to create millions, and this guy Bill Clinton is a dud," said Levinson. As a write-in candidate in other states, his slogan was: "If you can't be bothered writing my name on the ballot, then you don't deserve to have me."

Platform: He claimed that America's sagging economy could be revived by building 10,000 clipper ships to haul our exports all over the world and "we should let college students work on the ships for tuition." Powered by solar panels and wind, the vessels would save fossil fuels. Staffed by a few merchant marine professionals directing the crew of students, the clipper ships would be escorted by non-nuclear subs to prevent "old-fashioned piracy."

This was Levinson's fourth campaign for president and he had a carefully-planned strategy, pumping gas for customers at gas stations to make friends and distribute his position papers. Much of his energy in recent years was devoted to attacking television stations that denied him substantial chunks of free air time in 1992 to promote his candidacy. After the Federal Communications Commission refused to act on his complaints, he filed a lawsuit before the U.S. Supreme Court asking for the FCC to be declared unconstitutional.

In November of 1995 he wrote to the CEO of every major network in the U.S. and to New Hampshire's only statewide commercial television station requesting that he may deliver "a series of major substantive mass-media speeches on behalf of my campaign for party nomination and candidacy for the office of president of United States, 1996." His objective was to win the election by securing free air time then, via the "live unblinking camera, go one-on-one with the citizenry," offering his short and long-term solutions to the country's problems.

He was featured on a CNN news spot in 1996 and mentioned in Time as one of the more colorful fringe candidates. Levinson considered himself "an attractive candidate with meaningful non-partisan solutions to our prob limbs." "Politishinz" and "pallah tics" were his favorite avocations, when he was not promoting the poetic, "prophetic" synopsis of human civilization he presented in his 1971 publication. Once a creative writing instructor at the University of Buffalo, he still regarded inspiring young minds to be a major priority.

When Levinson appeared on Kevin Miller's radio talk show on Nashua's WMVU, he met an activist who had recently run for local office. Coming off a tough election fight of her own, she knew how it felt to be a political underdog. When Levinson said he needed a home base for the primary campaign, the former aldermanic candidate offered him her living room couch.

Levinson received 43 votes in 1988, 44 in 1992, and 35 in 1996

Caroline P. Killeen

Flagstaff, Arizona

Democrat

Age 70

"The Hemp Lady""Killeen up the earth"

A former Roman Catholic nun from Arizona, Caroline ran against U.S. Senator Dennis DeConcini in 1982 and for Governor in 1994. An acre of hemp produces oxygen equivalent to four acres of most other plants which, she said, is good for the environment, and marijuana which has medicinal benefits. It's time, she believed, to "bring hemp out of the closet."

Unmatched as a true grass roots campaigner, traveling always by bicycle, she pedaled across the United States at least ten times over the last thirty years. This taught her so much about America's demographics, being out there with Americana, that it became her lifestyle. She slept in fields, in churches, in college dormitories and homeless shelters, while "trying to look presidential."

"They used to call me a Bohemian years ago, a happy camper. But now, when you're out there in sleeping bag and traveling, they call me homeless."

She had a hemp plant adorning her bumper sticker to tout the "re-legalization of marijuana." Though she pushed mainly environmental themes since her first presidential bid in 1976, the controversial candidate said she was anti-gay rights, calling her own lesbian tendencies "a curse" that one must sublimate "until there is a religious pronouncement on it."

Touting marijuana's medicinal and recreational benefits, she aimed her message at New Hampshire high school and college students. She would lower the drinking age and promote smokers' rights. "Let Clinton inhale, legalize marijuana," was the bumper sticker she peddled statewide at $2 apiece, to finance her fifth bid for the Democratic presidential nod. She also used her Social Security check to help raise the $1,000 filing fee. "Willie's a wash and Perot's a horses you-know-what," she said. "How could I not try again?"

In late January of 1996, during a record-breaking snowfall winter, our pro-cannabis candidate wore out her welcome at Phi Psi Panarchy, an undergraduate society residence at Dartmouth College in Hanover. House members were forced to call the police after several days of unsuccessful efforts to get Killeen to leave. One night of hospitality turned into two, then three. By then she had acquired a dog and became very upset when house members insisted she depart. Panarchy's experience is "not untypical of Caroline," said a person who knew her. "She does that quite a lot. She settles in and moves her stuff in and then doesn't want to move on." She did move on finally, to a homeless shelter in Manchester, which became the centerpoint of her final weeks campaign.

Killeen received 96 votes in 1992; 393 votes in 1996.

Billie Joe Clegg

Hometown: Biloxi, Mississippi

Party: "born-again Republican"

Born: Oklahoma in 1929

"Clegg will not pull your leg."

Billie claimed he was ordained a minister on the streets of Exeter in 1976 and always carried a large-print Holy Bible tucked under his left arm when seeking votes. Making his seventh try for the White House, having dedicated twenty years to quadrennial campaigning and accepting no donations, he guessed he had spent $10,000 of his own money. He saw the moral decline in our country back in 1972, and he had been running ever since. Though the national media completely ignored him, he said he was regarded as the most "colorful" candidate, sought after and interviewed by several radio stations across the country. 1996 was a great year for Billie Joe, as "only one out of every fifty people refused to take my pamphlet."

Platform: In order to boost the job base in northern New England, Clegg would establish a “state of the art” anti-missile defense base in New Hampshire. His plan called for balancing the federal budget within twenty years without hurting veterans, elderly, Medicare and Medicaid.

Billie Joe took credit for having advocated a flat tax and preaching family values for twenty years. “Now, everybody’s on the bandwagon.” He’d replace the United Nations with a two hundred man SWAT team in each country.

Clegg wanted to “call out the National Guard and close down all the abortion clinics.” He was opposed to the Federal Reserve, the IRS, United Nations, affirmative action, homosexuality, and he would place a four-year moratorium on foreign aid and federal regulations.

He was “for what God is for and against what God is against.... By the way, what is all this I hear about our poor grandchildren’s future?” he asked, reading from a written speech. “Let them stop getting pregnant, get rid of their sound boxes and earn a living like we did and our forefathers did. I read in the news the other day that the federal government spends $37 billion on teenage pregnancy. Maybe the parents should go back to medieval times and provide chastity belts for their daughters.”

“It’ll be a miracle if I become president, but miracles do happen. The reason I don’t get elected is that I’m politically incorrect. I say things like ‘queers’ and ‘homos’ and ‘pornos’ and ‘pinkos.’ I’m pretty blunt,” he added.

He was a veteran of World War II, the Korean action and Vietnam. He retired from the U.S. Air Force after serving twenty years, eight years in the military overseas. He graduated from Oklahoma City University in 1978 at age 50, attaining a B average.

A switch hitter, Reverend Clegg, received 174 votes as a Democrat in 1976; and as a Republican, 110 votes in 1992 and 118 votes in 1996.

Three Favorite Quadrennial Candidates Mike Levinson - Billy Joe Clegg - Caroline Killeen

Though Mike Levinson had traveled all night from Buffalo in a blinding snowstorm to be the first in line at the 8:00 am opening hour for filing in 1991 for the 1992 primary, he was outpaced by Billy Joe Clegg who had spent the night on the statehouse steps.

Vowing not to let it happen in 1996, Levinson secretly camped out at a back door of the State House figuring he’d get in before Clegg. But maintenance opened the front door first and Clegg beat him again in the race to the Secretary’s office.

Unknown to either of them a State House reporter for the Manchester Union Leader had earlier admitted a stand-in to sign up for Pat Buchanan. He was already waiting outside the office when Clegg and Levinson came rushing up the stairs, as numbers two and three to file. Caroline Killeen, who couldn’t ride her bicycle into the building, was right behind them as filer number four.

After the office opened and the three quadrennials, Levinson, Killeen and Clegg, started registering with the Secretary, their traditional competition was reactivated with an amusing turn.

As Levinson eagerly detailed to the press his grand scheme for building clipper ships, Killeen had had enough and interrupted. “C’mon, Michael, don’t ruin it for the rest of us fringe candidates.” She then confided to the press, “He’s a little flaky.”

Killeen took over by expounding on her idea of legalizing marijuana, whereupon Clegg interrupted, asking her if she’d talked to Jesus about the plan. “Yes,” she replied, “I’ve talked to him. Hemp is a creation of nature.”

The answer led Clegg to remind her and the press that Jesus Christ was his campaign secretary and would never approve the use of pot.

Georgiana Doerschuck

Republican

Nashua, New Hampshire

Born New York City 1930

*"You don't need a politician for president.You need a lover.""As for my reasons for running for President,
I explained I needed a job."*

Desktop publisher Georgiana Doerschuck, a former candidate for New York assemblywoman in the 1960s, ran here for president in 1992 while still living in New York. She fared poorly in the endeavor, so she took out a temporary New Hampshire residence for her 1996 bid on the theory she'd do better as a "native."

Her experiences in her first New Hampshire primary are detailed in her $14.95 paperback, Project Valiant, which she intended to distribute to every public library in the state. In a recorded message "to the troops and citizens overseas" in January of 1992, she introduced herself and spoke on the national debt. Quoting Mark Twain, "The only criminal class we have in America is Congress," she said. "Since the presidents and Congress mounted this debt together, I am urging everyone to vote all incumbents out of office, irrespective of their parties.... I am not taking the time to tell you about myself except to say please vote for me. I am a fringe candidate, but my voice is heard."

She was very fortunate in the 1992 foray to have been invited to participate with six other fringe candidates in the "The Dark Horse Campaign Headquarters." It consisted of an office complete with secretary and telephones, well situated in Manchester. Reporters came from everywhere to interview them. "The general good will by the Dark Horse people in wishing each other well was morale lifting," she said. Later she learned they all had a secret dislike of her, a woman, and showed it the last few days of the primary: "I must have been better than I thought to generate such hostility. Gosh, what a compliment!"

Her book describes many interesting episodes: "While the best known candidates were in town, our motel was all booked up. Every time I opened my door, every other door would open to see who was coming into my room, or whatever. This became a game called 'Doors.' Spies were all over the place.... I found candidate's aides sneaking in drunk early in the morning...." Georgiana always seemed to draw a lot of attention: "On Valentine's Day, one of Bush's team was making eyes at me in the morning and blushing. I reminded him to send a greeting to his wife. He told me the staff would do it and my response was: 'There are certain things the staff cannot do for you. There are certain things that only you can do.'"

Platform: One of her first acts as president would be to shut off all of the nation's computers because their screens are "leaking electronic-magnetic radiation into our bodies." Yet she used a home computer to publish six issues annually of her $4.95 per copy newsletter, in which she detailed her ecological concerns. She vowed to cast away her home computer if she won the presidency. She would shut down the nation's nuclear power plants and replace them with a network of windmills, solar panels and hydroelectric plants. She deplored "communistic-inspired kinds of nurseries" where families send their children when both parents must work. "Women should not work until their children graduate high school."

The thrust of her candidacy would be to solve problems "by doing things according to Constitutional law." She prepared her "Outrageous Platform" which outlined in detail what she planned to do upon reaching the White House. The program would include building no new malls and ordering all existing malls to be closed on Sundays, addressing the hole in the ozone layer which she says is the size of Europe, building a new super railroad, ordering the Supreme Court to review all past decisions to see if they have violated the Constitution, requiring members of Congress to relinquish use of government cars, and there would be a Wives Fund financed by 10% of the husband's salary to protect wives in their jobs as wives and mothers.

The New Hampshire primary offers the opportunity “to get my views out to the public. As a matter of fact, I wrote a twenty-page platform and it was picked up by the other parties.” Doerschuck received 58 votes in 1992, 140 in 1996.

Heather Anne Harder

Author; lecturer

“A New Vision In A Changing World”

Ph.D. Education

Hometown: Crown Point, Ind.

Party: Democratic

Age: 47

Dr. Harder, author of numerous books and tapes on education and cosmic counseling, had been a lecturer for over twenty years to a wide variety of audiences from church to business groups. She had prepared and distributed many position papers on critical campaign issues. A former professor of education at Governors State University in Illinois, Harder was the founder of the Association of Universal Light Volunteers, an organization “for people who choose to openly serve on behalf of universal love and light.”

Throughout the campaign she operated out of a headquarters in Concord and had one full time staff assistant, Susan Bush, to keep track of her busy schedule addressing school groups everywhere in the state. “At home I have 250 employees who work for me, they run the business, they make decisions ... without me there,” Harder explained.

She had no political experience, yet she introduced an innovative chain letter approach for raising political funds. As a further campaign strategy she devised the Club of 10s: membership occurred when a voter made a personal commitment to fulfill ten of fifteen choices, such as sending a $10 contribution, writing ten endorsement letters, enlisting ten supporters or “include Heather in your prayers at least 10 times (or forever, if you choose).” About the New Hampshire primary: “I think New Hampshire has the power to really put the litmus test to the candidates ... by helping the rest of the world strip off the plastic veneer.”

Platform: Harder was probably the only candidate to start the fall leg of her campaign with three days of silence at a Trappist monastery. “There is a very strong spiritual foundation to our whole approach to this thing,” she explained. “We need to get the power back in the hands of the people.”

She centered her campaign platform on the notion of scaling back the Federal Government and “empowering” average folks. “So many people have bought out of the Government, either out of alienation or apathy,” Harder said. She proposed national referenda and wanted to require Congressional bills to be written “in standard English.” Her campaign focused on recruiting the disaffected and people with little political experience: “Patriot groups, groups that are very spiritual, churches, teachers, women’s groups.”

Harder hoped to get her name on every primary ballot, but preferred not to discuss how much money she had raised: “It’s not what the campaign’s about.” She mentioned that a professional fundraising group had offered to raise $130 million for her campaign, at a 30% commission.

In an interview that appeared in a new-age magazine, she revealed an unusual penchant: “The strangest part of my life, I guess, would be about my communication with other dimensions, which I fondly refer to as ‘talking to the dead people.’”

Harder received 376 votes.

Michael Eric Dass

Washington's Crossing, Pennsylvania
 Party: Democrat
 Age 39

"What I'm trying to do has never been tried before. If It works, I'll win big."

Michael Dass appeared in the Secretary of State's office dressed in blue jeans. After executing the filing papers he pulled a $1,000 check from an empty Mueller's spaghetti box. He said "I'm just an everyday guy, a working stiff. I don't have a college diploma, and I've never run for political office before. I'm single." Dass was unemployed.

He was the only one of 45 candidates who refused to be interviewed by the press about his campaign strategy. "If you want to talk to the people in the other 49 states, you have to talk to the media," he said. "But here in New Hampshire, I want to talk directly to the people, unfiltered by the media." He promised to return to be interviewed the day after primary, and submit to any type of questioning. Then he left, returning a few hours later to assure a Time reporter, "I'll guarantee to be here on the day after the primary to answer any questions you may ask." "If you win the primary," replied Time's Richard Stengel, "I'll guarantee to be here."

Platform: Direct Democracy. A few weeks later, Michael Dass had changed his mind, allowing himself to be privately interviewed, though not by the press. He was energized and enthusiastic from the grass roots campaigning he had been doing in New Hampshire, talking to people on the streets about the issues. Friendly Granite Staters questioned him about his "vision for America." What about this vision thing? He wondered. He started looking for answers from the people, and came to realize that all these Americans he met were looking for something very dramatic. Reforms currently being proposed by Washington were not sufficient.

He came up with the idea of "direct democracy," where people would vote directly on the issues, on all major legislation. Then, he wondered, how to make it workable, this new idea he had uncovered. He went back to the people — Republicans, Democrats, it didn't matter. They didn't want him to be partisan, which was good, because he had never favored Democrats. He had only registered as a Democrat because he felt somebody had to challenge Clinton.

His new New Hampshire friends all contributed ideas, and the whole plan developed into a composite vision for America wherein all citizens would vote directly on all major issues, to change government and how it works, by telephone. The reason he wouldn't talk to the press early on was that he really did not have the plan, the "jigsaw puzzle," put together. It was the people he met from all over the state who gave him all the pieces, which he eventually framed into a policy.

Dass had been to Bucknell College, where he was a physics major. He excelled in math, high calculus, advanced calculus, but was a slow reader. He went as far as the middle of his junior year, then dropped out of college and started working odd jobs. Never married. "Wish I had. Would have liked to," he said. "To be brutally honest, I've never been in a financial position where I felt I could support a wife and kids. That's one of the reasons I have the assets to come up here. Definitely couldn't do it if I were married."

Dass received 57 votes.

Richard P. Bosa

Berlin, NH
 Republican
 Age 53

"Made In New Hampshire"

Richard Bosa, a native son and newly-elected mayor of Berlin, was the only elected New Hampshire official on the ballot. The same sense of duty that once led him to volunteer for military service and combat duty in Vietnam drove him to register for the primaries. His perennial message about the need for legal and government reform, against unfunded federal mandates and, most importantly, about jobs, the economy and the demise of our manufacturing base was reiterated in his campaign trips around the state.

Bosa was always a prolific writer of letters to the editor, especially to the Manchester Union Leader. The themes varied, though he was primarily a legal reform activist. He wrote and spoke of the need to enforce anti-trust laws, about returning to the Republic form of government, about checks on the judiciary.

The other candidates were not discussing the important issues, he said. They didn't know the answers: "They're not addressing economic freedom.... They're not talking rationally, they're talking in hyperbole. They're all politicians and lawyers. This is a government by the lawyers, for the lawyers." Bosa requested that the Secretary of State have the names of all members of the legal profession removed from the ballot "on the grounds that the presence of any such candidate constitutes a violation of my constitutional rights to a government in which the principle of separation of powers is adhered to."

He had little use for the state's Republican Party structure and the bigger radio/television outlets which wouldn't allow him and many of the lesser knowns to have a seat at the table. He was rejected by the Speaker of the House to address the General Court's joint sessions because he "did not qualify for matching funds," he said. Access to Republican and other events was non-existent. "No invitations from the environmentalist, the gun owner, the senior citizen." "Selected invitations only" kept him out of the public eye.

His prolificity included a letter written to the Secretary of State three days after the primary: "If you are going to continue to advertise an 'Open Primary' and invite fringe candidates who pay their $1,000.00, you should consider helping them a little.... It wouldn't cost much to provide an area where telephones and desks are available so that the press would have a place to meet candidates. You might consider pushing a community like Exeter to do a 'Meet the Candidates Night'...."

"My campaign was not a waste of time or money because it was another experience on what is wrong with our government today that can only be known by experiencing the good and bad of the campaign process firsthand. Our New Hampshire media, party officials and organizations that normally provided an accessible arena for political candidates no longer do so for the fringe candidates."

Bosa received 349 votes in 1992, 216 in 1996.

Bruce C. Daniels

Originally from Landaff, NH "I'm tired of politicians talking about the Federal Democrat Government as if it were the enemy of the people."
Age 52

Professor Daniels holds dual citizenship, registered to vote in Mansfield, Connecticut, while teaching American history at the University of Winnipeg in Canada for over twenty-five years. His mother still resides in Lisbon, New Hampshire. This ultra-liberal Democrat paid for newspaper ads that carried the message, "Encourage Democrats and President Clinton to run a liberal campaign." He promoted the belief that the Democratic Party and the Clinton Administration should commit themselves to the principle that an active, strong government is necessary to ensure fairness in our society and to promote the well-being of all Americans.

Platform: strengthen environmental protection laws; draft new labor codes to reinvigorate unions; exercise the moral authority of the presidency to support pro-choice for women, gun control, and racial justice; increase student aid and government support for education; accelerate the pace of military base closings; guarantee health insurance for all; raise corporate taxes and make income taxes more progressive. He believed that the President should denounce the Republican Contract with America as a fraud and moral outrage. He supported affirmative action, opposed a middle-class tax cut, and defended the National Endowment for the Arts and the Public Broadcasting System as "national jewels."

Adopting a new strategy for low-budget campaigns, Daniels spent $400 for a home page on the World Wide Web, which he said brought him considerable response and reaction.

He wrote several books about American history. He tried to rehabilitate the somber connotations of the word "puritan" in a 1995 work entitled Puritans at Play. He espoused "the social programs created by Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, the honesty of Harry Truman's Fair Deal, the idealism of John F. Kennedy's New Frontier, the justice of Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty, and the morality of Jimmy Carter's foreign policy."

Daniels expressed his pride in the New Hampshire primary, which "gives opportunity for someone like me to enter the process." He liked the small scale because the best part of democracy is where citizens and candidates can eyeball each other. In summary, "If you have something to say and are willing to spend a little energy, people will listen — for better and for worse. A lot of foolish and nasty things are said in campaigns but they are all part of the process. Politics is a sport, a circus, a media event in most western nations and nowhere is this more true than in the United States. But all of this is what makes it work, makes it a democracy, and makes it a true delight."

One of his recent public speeches was appropriately entitled, "The Delights of Democracy: Anybody can Run for The Presidency — Everyone Should." Daniels did not expect to win; rather his mission was to send a message to Clinton that Clinton was not liberal enough.

Daniels received 312 votes.

"Sal" Casamassima

Houston, Texas

Party: Democrat

Age: 47

"Vision 2000 - A New Model For Government"

An attorney for twenty years he had never previously run for public office and was "sick and tired of the mess in Washington." He designed Vision 2000 "premised on the belief that the nation would be much better off if all of its citizens assumed personal responsibility for their lives." He wished for a government based on individual responsibility and empowerment.

Casamassima offered a four-point platform. One: "Create a fair, simple tax system that encourages savings, investment, and retirement planning." He would replace all income taxes, including Social Security, with a flat 20% income tax and a 5% national sales tax. Two: "Privatize the welfare/social services system." He would establish a network of non-profit agencies. Three: "Create 'fresh' government (Fair, Responsive, Strong, and Honest)." He would make government accountable to taxpayers as if they were shareholders in a private company. Four: "Change government policies in the area of education, law enforcement, and immigration." He would restore discipline in schools, law in communities, stop illegal immigration and require legal immigrants to demonstrate what they could do for the nation.

He was particularly disturbed that neither the Republican nor Democratic parties would take Social Security "off the table." He saw it as a "scam" and "political plutonium" which no politician dared touch. If it is not fixed "the whole pyramid will implode of its own weight taking the rest of the federal budget with it."

He was one of four fringe candidates who had a page on the Internet. He identified his readers as educated, motivated people who want to go beyond the conventional media to learn about a candidate. "It is for individuals like you to whom this home page is dedicated."

Casamassima was very disappointed with his experience in the New Hampshire primary where he found it was more difficult to get media attention for the "lesser known" candidates than it was in Texas. After preparing extensive position papers and a campaign brochure, he had written to most of the state's newspapers and TV stations requesting interviews and received no replies, yet he had TV appearances on Texas TV stations and the Donahue show.

He did note, however, that New Hampshire papers gave considerable publicity to "the Hemp lady, Pat Paulson and the fellow who wanted to build a fleet of clipper ships. Truly responsible journalism."

Casamassima received 45 votes.

Bruce C. Daniels and Sal Casamassima were among five fringe candidates selected to appear February 12, 1996, on Phil Donahue's national talk show. The third was Stephen Michael, a member of ACT UP who lived with his lover, Wayne Turner. Michael said he had tried unsuccessfully to procure their marriage license in Arkansas, which in his view demonstrated that President Clinton did not support the gay movement. The others were Harry Browne, a Libertarian, who qualified for federal matching funds but would not accept them because he did not believe in "welfare for politicians" and Susan Ducey, a registered nurse and political novice, who asked "How can you learn to be president except to be president?"

John Safran "The Peace Candidate"

Clifford, Michigan
Democrat
Age 87

"I support the policy of sending no American soldier beyond the limits of our own shores."

This Methodist minister, once a retired liberal labor lawyer who represented strikers in the early 30s, came from Michigan to the State House in Concord to file as a candidate challenging Clinton, offering himself as the only 'honest man' in the presidential race. He told the two newspaper reporters and a photographer who watched his filing that he was disappointed no television covered his announcement. With Jeannette, his wife of 59 years at his side, he walked the streets and talked to people whose response he described as "truly amazing." He sensed a positive reaction to his proposals of cutting the military budget by two-thirds, to create jobs, and to his pacifist resolution of not sending any more military personnel beyond our own shores for war purposes.

"Not one person asked my age," he marveled. A father of four and grandfather of nine, he espoused the teaching of morals and religion, not secularism, in our schools. He opposed abortion except to save the life of the mother, homosexuality, pornography and capital punishment.

His parents were born in Bosnia-Herzegovina, of German and Hungarian descent. Though American-born, John had lived in Europe with his family until 1914, when they relocated to Detroit. He "suffered the pains and agony of having a German ancestry during World War I." Relatives there were very much involved in the fighting. He always detested war, which he believed is the greatest enemy of society. "We have decayed morally, ethically and spiritually because of all the wars we've had, which never solved anything," he said. We must no longer serve as policeman of the world, and not add one cent to the five trillion dollars which the wars of this century and the "Cold War" have cost us for military endeavors, he added.

John Safran believed he was "called" to become a candidate, the same as he was "called" into the ministry, to raise issues that were not being raised by other candidates. He would accept contributions only from individuals, not any other source, up to a maximum of $50.00.

In life, as in politics, Safran seemed from another time. His hope was to have "a $200 billion works program like the ones Roosevelt created to get the country out of the Great Depression." He represented automobile strikers in 1933, ran unsuccessfully for the Michigan state legislature in 1938, and came in last of seven in the 1982 Democratic primary for governor of Michigan.

Safran received 42 votes

Charles F. Collins

Florida/Georgia

Independent

Age 66

"Within ten years we had a quarter of a million laws passed. How many of these ever gave you a right? Not one. They all dilute your rights."

After filing in New Hampshire as a Republican, he bolted the party because the hierarchy would not provide the recognition or assistance to which he felt entitled. Though he had also filed in twelve other states as a Republican, he continued his campaign as an Independent. This was his first run for national office, having previously served for sixteen years on the Panama City, Florida, School Board.

Early in 1995 he had written to the New Hampshire Republican State Committee and to the Republican National Committee, calling upon both to insure he would be afforded the "due and equal recognition afforded to other candidates." He felt strongly that speaking opportunities and access to Republican events and meetings in several states had not been given to him. Actually, the RNC list of 1996 GOP presidential candidates who had declared their candidacy as of May 1, 1995, did include Collins, but he continued to insist that he was being denied access and that "big media" had tried to shield the public from his campaign.

A Phi Beta Kappa class valedictorian from the University of Georgia, Collins had "twenty businesses going at one time in the great state of Florida." Predominantly a real estate developer given responsibility for building up Panama City, Collins also owned and operated a cattle ranch in Georgia. With his wife, Denise, they helped start Christian Coalition chapters and were also noted for sponsoring religious missionary work in Estonia.

He supported U.S. political dissident Michael New, the soldier dishonorably discharged for refusing to wear the United Nations patch on his uniform. He urged our withdrawal from the United Nations, mandating that no more American troops be placed under foreign command. "The United Nations is supposed to be a peacekeeping organization," he said. "It is a move to one world government, one world order." Accusing the UN of "subverting" the Constitution, Collins charged that the diplomatic organization was a scheme leading toward "no countries, no borders and one international currency."

Collins had turned down a Rhodes Scholarship in his youth. "Oxford is a hotbed of socialism. Clinton used it as a jumping off platform to denigrate this country during the Vietnam War," he said. Collins' economic plans included eliminating the Internal Revenue Service and repealing income taxes so mothers could stay home and teach traditional family values to their children. He would institute a national 5% consumption tax with a 2% cap on food and medicine.

His platform urged the repeal of the NAFTA and Gatt agreements, and the Agency for International Development. He would buy back the Federal Reserve banking system and return its assets and activities to U.S. Treasury control. He would do away with inheritance and estate taxes, with the War Powers Act, Trading With the Enemy Act, the F.E.M.A. Act, Emergency Powers Act, to restore the Constitution and rescind all old executive orders. Collins would repeal all gun laws, do away with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, and push for tougher sentencing for criminals who use guns.

"I am the one candidate who can unify America." He was not worried about Ross Perot and his Reform Party taking votes away from him because the more Independent candidates who ran, the better his chances. "I know that many millions of people are already behind us.... We're telling the truth to the churches and their members. We talk about the separation of church and state; that's not so. We have state churches. The state, the federal government use these churches under 501(c)(3) and dictate what the churches can do. We want to free the ministers, the churches and the congregations to stand up for what's right."

Though Charles Collins had tried to have his name taken off the ballot as a Republican candidate, it was too late. He received 42 votes.

RICHARD D. SKILLEN, M.D., M.A., FOR PRESIDENT ECONOMIC BETTERMENT FOR THE ENTIRE NATION

*Thy princes are rebellious, and companions of thieves:
 every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards . . . Isaiah 1:23*

In 1969 the United States of America put a man on the moon; but, now, more than 26 years later, a minimum wage worker can't put herself in an apartment. She can't put herself in the least expensive transportation on the new car lot. She can't put her child in day care. She can't pay her way in our health care system. She can't put 10% of her income in the offering at her place of worship; one hasn't that liberty when one's discretionary income is less than zero. For the same reason, she can't save for her child's college education, or for her own, or her family's retirement.

How can we come to understand what is happening to this great nation? How can we reconcile that the moon was within reach so many years ago, while homeownership and financial independence move further and further away from the average worker? If our success in 1969 reflected unprecedented scientific and managerial skills in government and industry, what do our current circumstances reflect?

Between 1915 and 1990 our population grew 148%, while our central bank expanded the money supply 6,500%. The per capita money supply was 66 times greater in 1990 than in 1915. This money supply growth, for which our central government is entirely responsible, led to considerable inflation.

An economy has no underlying inflation. We've all heard of core inflation, or food and energy inflation, but there really isn't any such thing. In fact, productivity gains lower production costs, and this leads to lower prices. Your "leaders" in Washington elect to deprive you of this.

Adam Smith, in his "The Wealth of Nations" made reference to declining industries. A declining industry is an industry that sees demand for its product growing at a slower rate than inflation. Such an industry cannot afford to increase its workers' wages in full step with inflation.

An advancing industry is an industry that sees demand for its product growing at a faster rate than inflation. Such an industry can increase its workers' wages in full step with inflation.

Consideration of declining industries is critical in understanding how damaging inflation has been to workers making average or below average wages. If some sectors (Advancing Industries) make gains far in excess of inflation, it seems intuitively clear that other sectors (Declining Industries) will fall far short of inflation. If the highly educated, trained and skilled find employment in advancing industries, who is left to fill positions in declining industries?

Inflation may not hurt anyone in a theoretical model that treats the economy as one big jug of homogenized milk, but with the realities of declining and advancing industries a touch of inflation is all that's necessary for the rich to continue getting richer and the poor to continue getting poorer.

Inflation, coupled with a dishonest tax code that doesn't adjust for it, allows the government to chip away at the principle, or corpus, of your savings account in the name of income taxation. This causes your wealth to dwindle. One can only hope that some of that wealth will trickle back down via some government function.

Eliminate inflation, restore savings accounts as wealth accumulation vehicles, and we're on the road to recovery. Accept no substitute!! Elect someone who understands what has happened and is happening to this great nation!!

If you understand this message, you know more economics than all the major candidates put together.

Dear People:

I have entered this primary election for President because voters have a sense of despair and disgust for the present Government. Have you heard the slogan "Save our Nation" or "Let's take back our country?" The liberals in Washington make you feel that you are a stranger in your own country. There are a great number of citizens that feel they have been left out of the political process of government. The central government, by use of its arbitrary powers is making slaves of free men.

Please listen closely to this quotation: "We have progressively abandoned that freedom in economic affairs without which personal and political freedom has never existed in the past."

We must change 40 years of big government, big taxes and big spending. Where are the virtues of independence, self-reliance, individual initiative, respect for custom and tradition, and a healthy suspicion of power and authority?

SEND A LIBERAL MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT CLINTON

Bruce Daniels, who was raised in Landaff, New Hampshire, presently votes in Mansfield, Connecticut, and teaches American history at The University of Winnipeg in Canada, is running in the Democratic Presidential Primary on a liberal platform. He believes the Democratic Party and the Clinton Administration should commit themselves wholeheartedly to the principle that an active, strong government is necessary to ensure fairness in our society and to promote the well-being of all Americans.

Specifically, Daniels favors strengthening environmental protection laws; drafting new labor codes to revitalize union organizations; exercising the moral authority of the presidency to speak often and unequivocally in support of pro-choice for women, gun control, and racial justice; increasing student aid and government support for education; accelerating the pace of military base closings; guaranteeing health insurance for all; raising corporate taxes and making income taxes more progressive. He believes that the President should denounce the Republican Contract with America as a fraud and moral outrage — not cut a deal with it.

New England Community Action Association — Presidential Forum

Since 1972 the New England Community Action Association has played a major supporting role in the success of the New Hampshire presidential primaries. It has sponsored a Presidential Forum in which each candidate is offered an hour-long opportunity to address members on any subjects of their choice. Originally held at the New Hampshire Highway Hotel in Concord the Forum grew from its first audience of less than 250 to well over 1,300 by the fourth one.

Every candidate who files is invited to participate; the attendees represent voters of all political persuasions; open to the media, proceedings extend over three days, long enough to fit everyone's campaign schedule. It has been the perfect podium for fringe candidates to proclaim their platforms. On the final day of the Forum in 1996, five candidates remained in the room to hear the last speaker from their group, even though the total audience had shrunk to thirty listeners.

Analysis of Post-Election Questionnaire Results

A post-primary election questionnaire was forwarded to all the "fringe candidates" for evaluation of their participation in the New Hampshire primary. Thirteen out of thirty-five took the trouble to respond: Carter, Safran, Griffin, Fornwalt, Hamm, McManus, Drucker, Paulsen, Skillen and Gunderson. Doerschuck, Collins and Casamassima added a letter to their executed questionnaire.

Structured in an easy to answer format, the questionnaire was made up of twenty-nine questions about length of stay in New Hampshire, dollars spent, campaign materials used, principal reason for running, priority issues, advertising used, media attention received, best and worst memory of the experience, filings in other states, and what should be the criteria that determine a "fringe candidate?"

Gunderson, Fornwalt, and Paulsen did not spend one day in New Hampshire. Doerschuck had taken an apartment in Nashua so that she could run as a resident. Dr. Skillen stayed with his family in Claremont for 45 days, the longest period spent in the state by any of the candidates. John Safran was a close second with 43 days spent in New Hampshire. Gerald J. McManus claimed to have spent one month here, whereas Drucker and Griffin spent twelve days. Charles E. Collins was in New Hampshire for about two weeks.

All candidates used some form of advertising and some had self-produced brochures. Those who could afford it used newspaper ads, though most relied on free press. Some had written to virtually all New Hampshire papers and TV stations before they came, requesting an interview or some coverage, and response was nil. The media should focus more on candidates' goals than electability, said one. The press didn't do their homework.

The consensus of all who responded was that serious media coverage was very difficult to come by and that, were it not for the presidential forum provided by the New England Community Action Association, none of the candidates would have had much opportunity to address an audience larger than 80, except for James Griffin and Charles Collins. The most available medium for everyone was talk radio, particularly WGIR in Manchester and WMVU in Nashua, two of the state's largest cities. Paulsen and Hamm reported they made good use of Internet to promote their candidacies, and most had prepared position papers ready for distribution.

The candidates had many different suggestions on what criteria should be used to distinguish "fringe" from "major," such as how many states they had filed in; whether they had ever run for or been elected to public office; the merit of their message, goal, or objective; and their integrity. "There is too much emphasis on money raised rather than on the issues," was one comment. "People seem genuinely concerned about the truth from candidates, wanting solutions to problems, not just talk."

Most found New Hampshire people very friendly; a few considered us "reserved." "Thanks to all of the people of the state of New Hampshire and God bless America. Love to give people hope," was Willie Felix Carter's message. "It was a great honor to be part of the history of the state of New Hampshire," wrote Russell J. Fornwalt. Other comments were: "Wonderful people all over the state." "I enjoyed the people in New Hampshire. They share with the nation the same concerns, dreams and aspirations." "New Hampshire does a great job in letting a candidate know what happened. We are grateful." "I saw a high school classmate on election day that I hadn't seen in over thirty years. We had a good exchange and I felt enriched by it." Despite some criticisms made in Sal Casamassima's letter, he concluded, "I still love the beauty of your state and the spirit of its people. I hope to visit there again soon."

Half the respondents were happy with their total votes received; half were disappointed. "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step. I'll be back," wrote Gerald J. McManus, whose goal is to save western civilization. "The fringe candidate proves that democracy is alive and well. He or she gives a much needed dimension to the political process."

Most candidates showed a keen sense of humor and were remarkably upbeat about their experience. One candidate's most memorable morning was meeting people at a huge candidates' pancake breakfast in Manchester with his twelve-year-old campaign manager by his side. Russell Fornwalt was very pleased to have garnered votes in all ten of New Hampshire's counties!

Some are perfectly willing to run again. New Hampshire's $1,000 filing fee and easy access to the ballot have helped them chase the dream, which they plan to pursue again perhaps, in another four years. Just having the opportunity to run was "a great honor." Enjoying the people and making new friends made it all worthwhile.

Finally, most importantly, they said they wanted to help their country by being involved, contributing their new ideas, by reaffirming faith and patriotism. According to their views, the prospect of having done that, of having tried to realign our country to godly principles, with freedom and justice for all, that journey of a thousand miles, for each of these unique Americans, was a happy and enriching experience.

HUGH GREGG'S COMMENTARY

It is a tenet of our democracy that anyone can grow up to be President. For the last half century our presidential primary has paved the road to the White House. To get there, "anyone" must first join a political party, accumulate enough delegates to become the nominee of the party, and win the national election. Politically friendly New Hampshire has been the quickest, easiest, least expensive and most effective place to start. It draws the focus of worldwide attention.

There are a few sardonic columnists like Mike Royko who believe New Hampshire should "move its primary back into the pack where it will receive the attention it really deserves - which is none." He thinks the primary system is "wacky" anyway and eulogizes the days when political bosses chose the candidates in party conventions. His enlightenment in that conclusion is about as spotty as his statements that President Eisenhower was the product of the convention system and that "New Hampshire is a political molehill of a state."

Columnist David Broder was far more perceptive in observing: "Every four years, someone will ask why a nation this large, this diverse, lets a couple of hundred thousand voters in an out-of-the-way corner of this country decide who should be president. The answer is obvious. Nobody does it better."

I think most members of the fourth estate would concur with a Boston Globe editorial: "Toppling two presidents (Truman and Johnson). Kneecapping front-runners like Taft, Muskie and Mondale. Introducing future presidents like Eisenhower, Carter and Clinton. New Hampshire voters know how to size them up and lay them out. Rarely has the rest of the nation disagreed."

Still there are those who cling to the musty argument that our citizenry is not sufficiently representative of the American electorate to speak for it. They allege we don't have enough Asians, Mexicans, Eskimos or assorted others to be a true cross-section of the general populace. Maybe we don't, but who does? Except for neighboring Vermont, where they say the cows outnumber and have more sense than the voters, we've got more "Ay'up" Yankees than any other place. So who is to determine which minorities best represent the American dream?

With the advent of satellite television, Internet and other electronic technology, we must admit that the outer layer of our primary is changing; but, at the same time, as the Concord Monitor has said, it's "not losing its character." It is less of a homespun cottage industry. More and more, the media, professional spin doctors and political consultants from out of state are calling the shots. Peter Steiner has an appropriate cartoon of a mother standing next to a voting machine with her four-year-old son, explaining, "It's called voting, sweetheart, you push one of these levers, and all those awful men leave New Hampshire."

Fortunately all of this superficial sophistication does not diminish the importance of what we do. This is the sole venue where the candidates have the opportunity to interact with real people. We have the time to look them in the eye and test their handshakes. The winners are never preordained here by collective media assessments, fat financial coffers or renowned political gurus. Author Theodore H. White wrote that "the reporting of 40 to 50 senior political correspondents can determine the outcome of an American presidential election." Not so in New Hampshire.

Still the press attempts to predict New Hampshire election results before the votes are cast. CBS's 60 Minutes, for example, in 1996 had to shelve their expensive production designed to prove that money could buy our primary when it appeared that the excessive spending of candidate "Steve" Forbes was not going to pay off.

Before 1996, presidential primaries in all other states were held after New Hampshire's in February and were on a staggered schedule extending to the summer. The front loading in 1996 resulted in more than two-thirds of them voting by the end March. "That, in turn, restricts the candidate field to those who have the great personal wealth or have access to those with wealth (to raise $25 million before the primary season starts)," said Curtis Gans, Director of the nonpartisan Committee for the Study of the American Electorate. This reasoning stirred a movement to substitute alternating regional primaries and to include New Hampshire in one of them.

Even if the country's lawmakers should decide to have regional presidential primaries, the nation would be best served by continuing to exempt New Hampshire from that scenario. Genuine "grass roots" presidential campaigning remains alive here, whereas the term has become no more than a word of endearment in most other places. New Hampshire serves the nation by winnowing the weak sisters before the key races begin in the other states.

Not to be overlooked in New Hampshire's importance is the opportunity it provides for that "anyone" to fulfill his or her dream. Dreamers come here from every state, from all walks of life, to take the gamble of becoming President of the United States. When Billie Joe Clegg learned that Senator Phil Gramm was going to buck tradition by filing in the Delaware primary, Billie chastised the senator, "You're going to try to take away my chance to run for President by destroying this place up here. Shame on you." And as Secretary of State, Bill Gardner commented to the press, "If it wasn't for New Hampshire, they wouldn't have a chance."

The Secretary is correct. Nonetheless It is unlikely that a lesser known candidate would win or, even if he or she did, that they would become the nominee of their party. Perhaps the most exceptional "fringe" candidate who beat the better knowns and made it to the presidency was the former peanut farmer, Jimmy Carter, although he had previously been the Governor of Georgia.

Many who come can ill afford the $1,000, and some feel a call from God, but all have a common thread. They love our country, they have a message, they want to make a contribution, they feel the nation is not well run and they can do it better. Sure, a few may only seek the publicity, but they pay dearly for it. Most of them believe the adoption of their innovative ideas would create a better place in which to live. From my interviews of the fringe candidates I am convinced the overwhelming majority is sincere, no matter how outlandish some of their platforms may appear. Some realistically don't expect to win, others honestly think they will. There's a third category who don't think they'll win yet suppose a miracle could happen and they would.

Do we no longer believe anyone can grow up to be president? Are we then to deprive "any one" of the lesser knowns even the opportunity of running for the presidency? I hope not.

Of much greater concern than whether we restrict the New Hampshire ballot to well-known and/or well-financed candidates is the future of the entire presidential primary system. In 1996 the two states that came closest to us in voter turnout were Oregon and North Dakota, both of which used mail-in ballots. Gone from those states are election days and polling places with all of the trappings of the time-honored election booths and registration procedures.

In 1996 even the United States Postal Service aborted tradition by publicly advertising: "Voting by mail ... increases voter participation — it broke all records in Oregon. It gives voters plenty of time to make a decision. It eliminates waiting in line to vote, and the problems that keep people away from the polling place, such as bad weather, age or physical handicaps." Sounds like the Postmaster General never heard of absentee voting. The ad continues, "If voting by mail works in Oregon, why not in other states, or even nationwide?"

In this depersonalized cyberage it may not be long before we go the next logical step to ease voting technique. The voter need only sit in front of his TV set with a pre-registered remote electronic device cropped securely in his hand. A ballot will come up on the screen. He'll press the button for the candidate of his choice. His vote will be instantly transferred by phone line or TV cable to a computer in Washington, D.C. There, in some megaplex, votes will also be recorded on-line from Internet or a satellite system controlled by the Federal Elections Commission, making it possible for the simultaneous participation of Americans from anywhere in the world. At the end of an authorized twelve-hour voting span, the computer will print out the total voting results. The President will have been elected.

It's only a short step from picking our presidents by licking stamps to picking them by television. If we continue to employ space-age technology, politics will become no more than a spectator sport competing with football games on the tube.

Voting "made easy" has already gone too far. What has happened to the civic responsibility we used to feel for exerting at least a modicum of effort to support the election process? We took such pride in our right to vote. Setting aside an hour or two on election day to go to the polls was a voluntary, patriotic duty eagerly performed.

In the past century New Hampshire has led the nation in both ballot access and voter participation. It was our state legislature which, on January 5, 1776, was first in the nation to spark a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

I believe it is a responsibility for our legislators of the 21st century to promulgate the traditions of our unique democratic election process which has so well served the nation for the past two hundred years.

*This history was written by Hugh Gregg who was elected Governor of New Hampshire in 1952 and participated in all presidential primaries since that year. In preparing his presentation Governor Gregg personally interviewed the lesser known candidates who filed in 1996. He has also written two books about the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primaries: The Candidates: See How They Run and A Tall State Revisited.*

The Declaration of Independence is generally regarded as one of the most famous documents in the history of the world. On June 10, 1776, the Continental Congress appointed a committee, consisting of Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston to draft a Declaration of Independence.

Jefferson wrote out a rough draft of the Declaration, which was carefully revised by the committee and presented to Congress for adoption. After some further slight revisions by that body, it was adopted on July 4, 1776, at Philadelphia.

The parchment with the original signatures was deposited with the Department of State when the government was organized in 1789.

The original Declaration of Independence was transferred from the Department of State by direction of the late President Warren G. Harding to the Library of Congress. The Declaration was moved from the Library of Congress in 1952 at the direction of Congress and transferred to the National Archives Building where it rests today.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

MADE BY THE ORIGINAL THIRTEEN STATES
IN CONGRESS AT PHILADELPHIA

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED JULY 4, 1776

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the law of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the government, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people should relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected, whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the name, and by authority of the good people of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies, are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connexion between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honour.

The United States Constitution is the oldest federal constitution in existence. It was so well framed that it has served as the basis for this government for a century and a half. Only once has it been seriously endangered, this being during the Civil War. Many of its principles have been adopted by other countries.

The Constitution was the outgrowth of a convention of delegates from the different states that met in Philadelphia in May, 1787, Rhode Island not being represented. George Washington presided over the convention, which lasted from May to September.

The Constitution was then submitted to the then existing states for ratification, with a provision that it should become effective when ratified by nine states. New Hampshire was the ninth state to ratify, June 21, 1788, and the Constitution went into effect in 1789.

The states ratified the Constitution in the following order: Delaware, Dec. 7; Pennsylvania, Dec 12, and New Jersey, Dec. 18, 1787; Georgia, Jan 2; Connecticut, Jan 9; Massachusetts, Feb. 6; Maryland, Apr. 28; South Carolina, May 23; New Hampshire, June 21; Virginia, June 26, and New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1789, and Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The Constitution originally consisted of a Preamble and seven Articles, and in that form was completed and signed at a convention of the States, Sept. 17, 1787. The Government under the Constitution was declared in effect on the first Wednesday in March, 1789.

THE CONSTITUTION

Preamble — WE THE PEOPLE of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I

Section 1

Legislative powers vested in Congress — All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Section 2

Composition of the House of Representatives — 1. The House of Representatives shall be composed of Members chosen every second Year by the People of the several States, and the Electors in each State shall have the Qualifications requisite for Electors of the most numerous Branch of the State Legislature.

Qualification of Representatives — 2. No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty-five Years, and been seven Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Apportionment of Representatives and direct taxes—census —* 3. [Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several States, which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole Number of free Persons, including those bound to Service for a term of Years and excluding Indians not taxed, three fifths of all other persons.] The actual Enumeration shall be made within three Years after the first Meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent Term of ten Years, in such Manner as they shall by Law direct. The Number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at Least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to chuse three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

Filling of vacancies in representation — 4. When vacancies happen in the Representation from any State, the Executive Authority thereof shall issue Writs of Election to fill such Vacancies.

Selection of officers; power of impeachment — 5. The House of Representatives shall chuse their Speaker and other Officers; and shall have the sole Power of Impeachment.

**Section 3

The Senate — [1. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six Years; and each Senator shall have one Vote.]

Classification of Senators; filling of vacancies — 2. Immediately after they shall be assembled in Consequence of the first Election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three Classes. The Seats of the Senators of the first Class shall be vacated at the Expiration of the second Year, of the second Class at the expiration of the fourth Year, and of the third Class at the expiration of the sixth Year, so that one-third may be chosen every second Year, and if Vacancies happen by Resignation, or otherwise, during the Recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary Appointments [until the next Meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such Vacancies.]

Qualification of Senators — 3. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty Years, and been nine Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an Inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

Vice President to be President of Senate — 4. The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no Vote, unless they be equally divided.

Selection of Senate Officers; President pro tempore — 5. The Senate, shall chuse their other Officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the Office of President of the United States.

Senate to try impeachment — 6. The Senate shall have the sole Power to try all Impeachments. When sitting for that Purpose, they shall be on Oath or Affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no Person shall be convicted without the Concurrence of two thirds of the Members present.

Judgment in case of impeachment — 7. Judgement in Cases of Impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from Office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any Office of honor, Trust, or Profit under the United States: but the Party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to Indictment, Trial, Judgment and Punishment, according to Law.

Section 4

Control of congressional elections — 1. The Times, Places and Manner of holding Elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time by Law make or alter such Regulations, except as to the Places of chusing Senators.

---

*The clause included in brackets is amended by the fourteenth amendment, second section.

**The first paragraph of Section three of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and so much of paragraph two of the same section as relates to filling vacancies are amended by the seventeenth amendment to the Constitution.

*Time for assembling of Congress — 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every Year, and such Meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by Law appoint a different day.

Section 5

Each House to be the judge of the election and qualifications of its members; regulations as to quorum — 1. Each House shall be the Judge of the Elections, Returns and Qualifications of its own Members, and a Majority of each shall constitute a Quorum to do Business; but a small Number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the Attendance of absent Members, in such Manner, and under such Penalties as each House may provide.

Each House to determine its own rules — 2. Each House may determine the Rules of its Proceedings, punish its Members for disorderly Behavior, and, with the Concurrence of two thirds, expel a Member.

Journals and yeas and nays — 3. Each House shall keep a Journal of its Proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such Parts as may in their judgment require Secrecy; and the Yeas and Nays of the Members of either House on any question shall, at the Desire of one fifth of those Present, be entered on the Journal.

Adjournment — 4. Neither House, during the Session of Congress shall, without the Consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other Place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

Section 6

Compensation and privileges of Members of Congress — 1. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a Compensation for their Services, to be ascertained by Law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all Cases, except Treason, Felony and Breach of the Peace, be privileged from Arrest during their Attendance at the Session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any Speech or Debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Incompatible offices; exclusions — 2. No Senator or Representative shall, during the Time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil Office under the Authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the Emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no Person holding any Office under the United States, shall be a Member of either House during his continuance in Office.

Section 7

Revenue bills to originate in House — 1. All Bills for raising Revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with Amendments as on other Bills.

*Amended by Article XX, section 2, of the amendments to the Constitution.

Manner of passing bills; veto power of President — 2. Every Bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall before it becomes a Law, be presented to the President of the United States; If he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his Objections to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the Objections at large on their Journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such Reconsideration two thirds of that House shall agree to pass the Bill, it shall be sent, together with the Objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that House, it shall become a Law. But in all such Cases the Votes of both Houses shall be determined by Yeas and Nays, and the Names of the Persons voting for and against the Bill shall be entered on the Journal of each House respectively. If any Bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the Same shall be a Law, in like Manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their Adjournment prevent its Return, in which Case it shall not be a Law.

Concurrent orders or resolutions, to be passed by President — 3. Every Order, Resolution, or Vote to which the Concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the Same shall take Effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the Rules and Limitations prescribed in the Case of a Bill.

*General powers of Congress.

The Congress shall have the Power — 1. To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

Borrowing of money — 2. To borrow money on the credit of the United States.

*See sixteenth amendment.

ARTICLE II

Section 1

The President; the executive power — 1. The executive Power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his Office during the Term of four Years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same Term, be elected, as follows:

Appointment and qualifications of presidential electors — 2. Each State shall appoint, in such Manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole Number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative or Person holding an Office of Trust or Profit under the United States, shall be appointed an Elector.

Original method of electing the President and Vice-President —*[The Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by Ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an Inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a List of all the Persons voted for, and of the Number of Votes for each; which List they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the Seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the Presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the Certificates, and the Votes shall then be counted. The Person having the greatest Number of Votes shall be the President, if such Number be a Majority of the whole Number of Electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such Majority, and have an equal Number of Votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately chuse by Ballot one of them for President; and if no Person have a Majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like Manner chuse the President. But in chusing the President, the Votes shall be taken by States, the Representation from each State having one Vote; A quorum for this Purpose shall consist of a Member or Members from two-thirds of the States, and a Majority of all the States shall be necessary to a Choice. In every case, after the Choice of the President, the Person having the greatest Number of Votes of the Electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal Votes, the Senate shall chuse from them by Ballot the Vice-President.]

Congress may determine time of choosing electors and day for casting their votes — 3. The Congress may determine the Time of chusing the Electors, and the Day on which they shall give their Votes; which Day shall be the same throughout the United States.

**Qualifications for the office of President — 4. No person except a natural born Citizen, or a Citizen of the United States, at the time of the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the Office of President; neither shall any Person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the Age of thirty-five Years, and been fourteen Years a Resident within the United States.

†Filling vacancy in the office of President — 5. In Case of the Removal of the President from Office, or of his Death, Resignation, or Inability to discharge the Powers and Duties of the said Office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by Law provide for the Case of Removal, Death, Resignation or Inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what Officer shall then act as President,*and such Officer shall act accordingly, until the Disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

*This clause has been superseded by the twelfth amendment.

**For qualifications of the Vice-President, see Article XII of the amendments.

†Amended by Article XX, sections 3, and 4, of the amendments to the Constitution.

Compensation of the President — 6. The President shall, at stated Times, receive for his Services, a Compensation, which shall neither be encreased nor diminished during the Period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that Period any other Emolument for the United States, or any of them.

Oath to be taken by the President — 7. Before he enter on the Execution of his Office, he shall take the following Oath or Affirmation: — “I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my Ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States.”

Section 2

The President to be commander-in-chief of army and navy and head of executive department; may grant reprieves and pardons — 1. The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States; he may require the Opinion, in writing, of the principal Officer in each of the executive Departments, upon any subject relating to the Duties of their respective Offices, and he shall have Power to grant Reprieves and Pardons for Offenses against the United States, except in Cases of Impeachment.

President may, with concurrence of Senate, make treaties, appoint ambassadors; etc.; appointment of inferior officers, authority of Congress over — 2. He shall have Power, by and with the Advice and Consent of the Senate to make Treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the Advice and Consent of the Senate, shall appoint Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, Judges of the Supreme Court, and all other Officers of the United States, whose Appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by Law; but the Congress may by Law vest the Appointment of such inferior Officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the Courts of Law, or in the Heads of Departments.

President may fill vacancies in office during recess of Senate — 3. The President shall have Power to fill all Vacancies that may happen during the Recess of the Senate, by granting Commissions which shall expire at the End of their next Session.

Section 3

President to give advice to Congress; may convene or adjourn it on certain occasions; to receive ambassadors, etc.; have laws executed and commission all officers — He shall from time to time give to the Congress Information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their Consideration such Measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary Occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in Case of Disagreement between them, with Respect to the Time of Adjournment, he may adjourn them to such Time as he shall think proper; he shall receive Ambassadors and other public Ministers; he shall take Care that the Laws be faithfully executed, and shall Commission all the Officers of the United States.

Section 4

All civil officers removable by impeachment — 1. The President, Vice-President and all civil Officers of the United States, shall be removed from Office on Impeachment for, and Conviction of, Treason, Bribery, or other high crimes and Misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III

Section 1

Judicial power; how vested; term of office and compensation of judges — The judicial Power of the United States, shall be vested in one supreme Court, and in such inferior Courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The Judges, both of the supreme and inferior Courts, shall hold their offices during good Behaviour, and shall, at stated Times, receive for their Services a Compensation which shall not be diminished during their Continuance in office.

Section 2

*Jurisdiction of Federal courts — The judicial Power shall extend to all Cases in Law and Equity, arising under this Constitution, the Laws of the United States and Treaties made, or which shall be made, under their Authority; to all Cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and consuls;— to all Cases of Admiralty and maritime Jurisdiction;— to Controversies to which the United States shall be a Party;— to Controversies between two or more States;— between a State and Citizens of another State;— between Citizens of different States; between Citizens of the same States claiming Lands under Grants of different States, and between a State, or the Citizens thereof, and foreign States, Citizens or Subjects.

Original and appellate jurisdiction of Supreme Court — 2. In all cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, and those in which a State shall be Party, the Supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction. In all the other Cases before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate Jurisdiction, both as to Law and Fact, with such Exceptions, and under such Regulations as the Congress shall make.

Trial of all crimes, except impeachment, to be by jury — 3. The trial of all such Crimes, except in Cases of Impeachment, shall be by Jury; and such Trial shall be held in the State where the said Crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such Place or Places as the Congress may by Law have directed.

Treason defined; conviction of — 1. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying War against them, or, in adhering to their Enemies, giving them Aid and Comfort. No Person shall be convicted of Treason unless on the Testimony of two Witnesses to the same overt Act, or on Confession in open Court.

Congress to declare punishment for treason; proviso — 2. The Congress shall have power to declare the Punishment of Treason, but no Attainder of Treason shall work Corruption of Blood, or Forfeiture except during the Life of the Person attained.

*This section is abridged by Article XI of the amendments.

ARTICLE IV

Section 1

Each State to give full faith and credit to the public acts and records of other States — Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

Section 2

Privileges to citizens — 1. Citizens of each State shall be entitled to all Privileges and Immunities of Citizens in the several States.

Extradition between the several States — 2. A Person charged in any State with Treason, Felony, or other Crime, who shall flee from Justice, and be found in another State, shall on demand of the executive Authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having Jurisdiction of the Crime.

*Person held to labor or services in one State, fleeing to another, to be returned — 3. No Person held to Serve or Labour in one State under the Laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in Consequence of any Law or Regulation therein, be discharged from such Service or Labour, but shall be delivered up on Claim of the Party to whom such Service or Labour may be due.

Section 3

New States — 1. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the Jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by Junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the Consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress.

Regulations concerning territory — 2. The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to Prejudice any Claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

Section 4

Republican form of government and protection guaranteed the several States — 1. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V

Ways in which the Constitution can be amended — The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution; or, on the Application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either Case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislature of three-fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress; Provided that no Amendment which may be made prior to the year One thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any Manner affect the first and fourth Clauses in the Ninth Section of the first Article; and that no State, without its Consent, shall be deprived of its equal Suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI

Debts contracted under the confederation secured — 1. All Debts contracted and Engagements entered into, before the Adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the Confederation.

Constitution, laws and treaties of the United States to be supreme — 2. This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding.

Who shall take constitutional oaths; no religious test as to official qualifications — 3. The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the Members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial Officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation, to support this Constitution; but no religious Test shall ever be required as a Qualification to any office or public Trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII

Constitution to be considered adopted when ratified by nine States—

The Ratification of the Conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the Establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the Same.

Done in Convention by Unanimous Consent of the States present the Seventeenth Day of September in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and Eighty seven and of the Independence of the United States of America the Twelfth. In Witness whereof We have hereunto subscribed our Names.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

The following amendments from articles I to X inclusive were proposed at the first session of the first Congress of the United States, which was begun and held at the city of New York on the 4th day of March, 1789, and were adopted by the requisite number of states, as follows: New Jersey, Nov. 20, 1789; Maryland, Dec. 19, 1789; North Carolina, Dec. 22, 1789; South Carolina, Jan. 19, 1790; New Hampshire, Jan. 25, 1790; Delaware, Jan. 28, 1790; Pennsylvania, March 10, 1790; New York, March 27, 1790; Rhode Island, June 15, 1790; Vermont, Nov. 3, 1791, and Virginia, Dec. 15, 1791.

The following preamble and resolution preceded the original proposition of the amendments, and as they have been supposed by a high equity judge to have an important bearing on the construction of those amendments, they are here inserted. They will be found in the journals of the first session of the first congress.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

Begun and held at the city of New York, on Wednesday, the 4th day of March, 1789.

The conventions of a number of the states having, at the time of their adopting the Constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added, and as extending the ground of public confidence in the government will best insure the beneficent ends of its institution:

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled, two-thirds of both houses concurring, that the following articles be proposed to the legislature of the several states, as amendments to the constitution of the United States; all or any of which articles, when ratified by three-fourths of the said legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of the said constitution, namely:

ARTICLE I

Freedom of religion, of speech, of the press, and right of petition — Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II

Right of the people to bear arms not to be infringed — A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III

Quartering of troops — No Soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV

Persons and houses to be secure from unreasonable searches and seizures — The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V

Trials for crimes; just compensation for private property taken for public use — No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI

Civil rights in trials for crime enumerated — In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence.

ARTICLE VII

Civil rights in civil suits — In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried in a jury, shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII

Excessive bail, fines and punishments prohibited — Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX

Reserved rights of people — The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X

Powers not delegated, reserved to States and people respectively — The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

[The eleventh amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the third Congress on March 5, 1794, and was declared in force January 8, 1798.]

ARTICLE XI

Judicial power of United States not to extend to suits against a State — The Judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by Citizens of another State, or by Citizens or Subjects of any Foreign State.

[The twelfth amendment which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the eighth Congress on December 12, 1803, and was declared in force September 25, 1804.]

ARTICLE XII

*Present mode of electing President and Vice-President by electors — The Electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; —The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted; — The person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President, shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

[The thirteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the thirty-eighth Congress on February 1, 1865, and was declared in force December 18, 1865.]

ARTICLE XIII

Section 1

Slavery prohibited — Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

Section 2

Congress given power to enforce this article — Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The fourteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the thirty-ninth Congress on June 16, 1866, and was declared in force July 28, 1868.]

ARTICLE XIV

Section 1

Citizenship defined; privileges of citizens — All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Section 2

Apportionment of Representatives — Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the Executive and Judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Section 3

Disqualification for office; removal of disability — No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Section 4

Public debt not to be questioned; payment of debts and claims incurred in aid of rebellion forbidden — The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

Section 5

Congress given power to enforce this article — The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

[The fifteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the fortieth Congress on February 27, 1869, and was declared in force March 30, 1870.]

ARTICLE XV

Section 1

Right of certain citizens to vote established — The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Section 2

Congress given power to enforce this article — The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The sixteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the sixty-first Congress on July 12, 1909, and was declared in force February 25, 1913.]

ARTICLE XVI

Taxes on incomes; Congress given power to lay and collect — The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

[The seventeenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the sixty-second Congress on May 16, 1912, and was declared in force May 31, 1913.]

ARTICLE XVII

Election of United States Senators; filling of vacancies; qualification of electors — 1. The Senate of the United States will be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.

2. When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies; Provided, that the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointment until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

3. This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

[The eighteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the sixty-fifth Congress, and was declared on January 29, 1919, as going into full force and effect on January 16, 1920.]

*ARTICLE XVIII

Manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors, for beverage purposes, prohibited — 1. After one year from the ratification of this article, the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

Congress and the several States given concurrent power to pass appropriate legislation to enforce this article — 2. The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

Provisions of article to become operative, when adopted by three-fourths of the State — 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of the several States, as provided in the Constitution within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress.

*Repealed by Article XXI, effective December 5, 1933.

[The nineteenth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the several states by the sixty-sixth Congress on May 19, 1919, and declared in force August 26, 1920.]

ARTICLE XIX

The right of citizens to vote shall not be denied because of sex—

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The twentieth amendment, which follows, was proposed to the legislatures of the states by the seventy-second Congress, Senate Joint Res. 14, passed by the House of Representatives on March 1, 1932; the Senate March 2, 1932; signed by the Speaker of the House March 2, 1932, by the Vice-President of the U.S. and the President of the Senate March 3, 1932. Ratification by the thirty-sixth state occurred January 23, 1933. Sections 1 and 2 of the amendment became effective October 15, 1933.]

ARTICLE XX

Section 1

Terms of President, Vice-President, Senators and Representatives—

The terms of the President and Vice-President shall end at noon on the 20th day of January, and the terms of Senators and Representatives at noon on the 3d day of January, of the years in which such terms would have ended if this article had not been ratified; and the terms of the successors shall then begin.

Section 2

Time of assembling Congress — The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3d day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Section 3

Filling vacancy in office of President — If, at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of the President, the President elect shall have died, the Vice-President elect shall become President. If a President shall not have been chosen before the time fixed for the beginning of his term, or if the President elect shall have failed to qualify, then the Vice-President elect shall act as President until a President shall have qualified; and the Congress may by law provide for the case wherein neither a President elect nor a Vice-President elect shall have qualified, declaring who shall then act as President, or the manner in which one who is to act shall be selected, and such person shall act accordingly until a President or Vice-President shall have qualified.

Section 4

Power of Congress in Presidential succession — The Congress may by law provide for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the House of Representatives may choose a President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them, and for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the Senate may choose a Vice-President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them.

Section 5

Time of taking effect — Sections 1 and 2 shall take effect on the 15th day of October following the ratification of this article.

Section 6

Ratification — This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission.

[The twenty-first amendment, which follows, was proposed by the seventy-second Congress, second session beginning December 5, 1932. Senate Joint Resolution 211, passed February 20, 1933, provided for ratification by conventions in three-fourths of the States. The amendment became effective with ratification by Utah, the thirty-sixth state, on December 5, 1933.]

ARTICLE XXI

Section 1

Repeal of Prohibition Amendment — The eighteenth article of amendment to the Constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

Section 2

Transportation of intoxicating Liquors — The transportation or importation into any State, Territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

Section 3

Ratification — This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by conventions in the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress.

[The twenty-second amendment, which follows, was proposed by the eightieth Congress, first session beginning January 3, 1947. Joint Resolution provided for ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states. The amendment became effective with ratification by Minnesota, the thirty-sixth state, on February 27, 1951.]

ARTICLE XXII

Section 1

Term of the office of President — No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of the President more than once. But this Article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this Article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this Article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

Section 2

Ratification — This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission to the States by the Congress.

[The twenty-third amendment which follows, was proposed by the eighty-sixth Congress, second session beginning January 6, 1960. Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States granting representation in the electoral college to the District of Columbia, and provided for ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission by the Congress. The amendment became effective with ratification by Kansas, on April 3, 1961.]

ARTICLE XXIII

Section 1

Granting representation in the electoral college to the District of Columbia — The District constituting the seat of Government of the United States shall appoint in such manner as the Congress may direct: A number of electors of President and Vice President equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives in Congress to which the District would be entitled if it were a State, but in no event more than the least populous State; they shall be in addition to those appointed by the States, but they shall be considered, for the purposes of the election of President and Vice President, to be electors appointed by a State; and they shall meet in the District and perform such duties as provided by the twelfth article of amendment.

Section 2

Congress given power to enforce this Article — The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The twenty-fourth amendment which follows, was proposed by the eighty-seventh Congress, second session beginning January 10, 1962. Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to the qualifications of electors, and provided for ratification by the legislature of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission by the Congress. The amendment became effective with ratification by South Dakota, on January 23, 1964.]

ARTICLE XXIV

Section 1

Relating to the qualifications of electors — The rights of citizens of the United States to vote in any primary or other election for President or Vice President, for electors for President or Vice President, or for Senator or Representative in Congress, shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State by reason of failure to pay any poll tax or other tax.

Section 2

Congress given power to enforce this Article — The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[The twenty-fifth amendment which follows, was proposed at the first session of the eighty-ninth Congress beginning January 4, 1965. Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to succession to the Presidency and Vice Presidency and to cases where the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and provided for ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission by the Congress. The amendment became effective with ratification by Nevada on February 10, 1967.]

ARTICLE XXV

Section 1

Vice President to become President — In case of the removal of the President from office or of his death or resignation, the Vice President shall become President.

Section 2

President to nominate Vice President when vacancy in office of Vice President — Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the Vice President, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both Houses of Congress.

Section 3

President unable to discharge duties Vice President to be Acting President — Whenever the President transmits to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, such powers and duties shall be discharged by the Vice President as Acting President.

Section 4

President unable to discharge duties determined by Vice President or as Congress may by law provide — Whenever the Vice President and a majority of either of the principal officers of the executive departments or of such other body as Congress may by law provide, transmit to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives their written declaration that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the Vice President shall immediately assume the powers and duties of the office as Acting President.

Thereafter, when the President transmits to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives his written declaration that no inability exists, he shall resume the powers and duties of his office unless the Vice President and a majority of either the principal officers of the executive department or of such other body as Congress may by law provide, transmit within four days to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives their written declaration that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office. Thereupon Congress shall decide the issue, assembling within forty-eight hours for that purpose if not in session. If the Congress, within twenty-one days after receipt of the latter written declaration, or, if Congress is not in session, within twenty-one days after Congress is required to assemble, determines by two-thirds vote of both Houses that the President is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the Vice President shall continue to discharge the same as Acting President; otherwise, the President shall resume the powers and duties of his office.

[The twenty-sixth amendment which follows, was proposed at the first session of the ninety-second Congress beginning January 21, 1971. Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States extending the right to vote to citizens eighteen years of age or older, and provided for ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission by the Congress. The amendment was declared on July 5, 1971 as going into full force and effect on July 1, 1971.]

ARTICLE XXVI

Section 1

Extending the right to vote to citizens eighteen years of age or older — The right of citizens of the United States who are eighteen years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of age.

Section 2

Congress given power to enforce this article — The Congress Shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

CONSTITUTION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

PART FIRST

BILL OF RIGHTS

Article 1. [Equality of Men; Origin and Object of Government.] All men are born equally free and independent; therefore, all government of right originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.

June 2, 1784*

[Art.] 2. [Natural Rights.] All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights - among which are, the enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting, property; and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by this state on account of race, creed, color, sex or national origin.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1974 adding sentence to prohibit discrimination.

[Art.] 2-a. [The Bearing of Arms.] All persons have the right to keep and bear arms in defense of themselves, their families, their property and the state.

December 1, 1982

[Art.] 3. [Society, its Organization and Purposes.] When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to ensure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 4. [Rights of Conscience Unalienable.] Among the natural rights, some are, in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the Rights of Conscience.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 5. [Religious Freedom Recognized.] Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; or for his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion; provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 6. [Morality and Piety.] As morality and piety, rightly grounded on high principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay, in the hearts of men, the strongest obligations to due subjection; and as the knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society, therefore, the several parishes, bodies, corporate, or religious societies shall at all times have the right of electing their own teachers, and of contracting with them for their support or maintenance, or both. But no person shall ever be compelled to pay towards the support of the schools of any sect or denomination. And every person, denomination or sect shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect, denomination or persuasion to another shall ever be established.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1968 to remove obsolete sectarian references.

*The date on which each article was proclaimed as having been adopted is given after each article. This is followed by the year in which amendments were adopted and the subject matter of all the amendments.

[Art.] 7. [State Sovereignty.] The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state; and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right, pertaining thereto, which is not, or may not hereafter be, by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 8. [Accountability of Magistrates and Officers; Public's Right to Know.] All power residing originally in, and being derived from, the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents, and at all times accountable to them. Government, therefore, should be open, accessible, accountable and responsive. To that end, the public's right of access to governmental proceedings and records shall not be unreasonably restricted.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1976 by providing right of access to governmental proceedings and records.

[Art.] 9. [No Hereditary Office or Place.] No office or place, whatsoever, in government, shall be hereditary - the abilities and integrity requisite in all, not being transmissible to posterity or relations.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 10. [Right of Revolution.] Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security, of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family, or class of men; therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted, and public liberty manifestly endangered, and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to reform the old, or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power, and oppression, is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 11. [Elections and Elective Franchises.] All elections are to be free, and every inhabitant of the state of 18 years of age and upwards shall have an equal right to vote in any election. Every person shall be considered an inhabitant for the purposes of voting in the town, ward, or unincorporated place where he has his domicile. No person shall have the right to vote under the constitution of this state who has been convicted of treason, bribery or any willful violation of the election laws of this state or of the United States; but the supreme court may, on notice to the attorney general, restore the privilege to vote to any person who may have forfeited it by conviction of such offenses. The general court shall provide by law for voting by qualified voters who at the time of the biennial or state elections, or of the primary elections therefor, or of city elections, or of town elections by official ballot, are absent from the city or town of which they are inhabitants, or who by reason of physical disability are unable to vote in person, in the choice of any officer or officers to be elected or upon any question submitted at such election. Voting registration and polling places shall be easily accessible to all persons including disabled and elderly persons who are otherwise qualified to vote in the choice of any officer or officers to be elected or upon any question submitted at such election. The right to vote shall not be denied to any person because of the non-payment of any tax. Every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to be elected into office.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1903 to provide that in order to vote or be eligible for office a person must be able to read the English language and to write.

Amended 1912 to prohibit those convicted of treason, bribery or willfull violation of the election laws from voting or holding elective office.

Amended 1942 to provide for absentee voting in general elections. Amended 1956 to provide for absentee voting in primary elections.

Amended 1968 to provide right to vote not denied because of nonpayment of taxes. Also amended in 1968 to delete an obsolete phrase.

Amended 1976 to reduce voting age to 18.

Amended 1984 to provide accessibility to all registration and polling places.

[Art.] 12. [Protection and Taxation Reciprocal.] Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it, in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property; he is therefore bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service when necessary. But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him, or applied to public uses, without his own consent, or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they, or their representative body, have given their consent.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1964 by striking out reference to buying one's way out of military service.

[Art.] 13. [Conscientious Objectors not Compelled to Bear Arms.] No person, who is conscientiously scrupulous about the lawfulness of bearing arms, shall be compelled thereto.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1964 by striking out reference to buying one's way out of military service.

[Art.] 14. [Legal Remedies to be Free, Complete, and Prompt.] Every subject of this state is entitled to a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries he may receive in his person, property, or character; to obtain right and justice freely, without being obliged to purchase it; completely, and without any denial; promptly, and without delay; conformably to the laws.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 15. [Right of Accused.] No subject shall be held to answer for any crime, or offense, until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him; or be compelled to accuse or furnish evidence against himself. Every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to himself; to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defense, by himself, and counsel. No subject shall be arrested, imprisoned, despoiled, or deprived of his property, immunities, or privileges, put out of the protection of the law, exiled or deprived of his life, liberty, or estate, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land; provided that, in any proceeding to commit a person acquitted of a criminal charge by reason of insanity, due process shall require that clear and convincing evidence that the person is potentially dangerous to himself or to others and that the person suffers from a mental disorder must be established. Every person held to answer in any crime or offense punishable by deprivation of liberty shall have the right to counsel at the expense of the state if need is shown; this right he is at liberty to waive, but only after the matter has been thoroughly explained by the court.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1966 to provide the right to counsel at state expense if the need is shown.

Amended 1984 reducing legal requirement proof beyond a reasonable doubt to clear and convincing evidence in insanity hearings.

[Art.] 16. [Former Jeopardy; Jury Trial in Capital Cases.] No subject shall be liable to be tried, after an acquittal, for the same crime or offense. Nor shall the legislature make any law that shall subject any person to a capital punishment, (excepting for the government of the army and navy, and the militia in actual service) without trial by jury.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 17. [Venue of Criminal Prosecutions.] In criminal prosecutions, the trial of facts, in the vicinity where they happened, is so essential to the security of the life, liberty and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county or judicial district than that in which it is committed; except in any case in any particular county or judicial district, upon motion by the defendant, and after a finding by the court that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had where the offense may be committed, the court shall direct the trial to a county or judicial district in which a fair and impartial trial can be obtained.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 to change "assembly" to: legislature.

Amended 1978 so that court at defendant's request may change trial to another county or judicial district.

[Art.] 18. [Penalties to be Proportioned to Offenses; True Design of Punishment.] All penalties ought to be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. Where the same undistinguishing severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves, and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do the lightest offenses. For the same reason a multitude of sanguinary laws is both impolitic and unjust. The true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate mankind.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 deleting "those of" after do in 3d sentence and changing "dye" to: offenses.

[Art.] 19. [Searches and Seizures Regulated.] Every subject hath a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. Therefore, all warrants to search suspected places, or arrest a person for examination or trial in prosecutions for criminal matters, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation; and if the order, in a warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places, or to arrest one or more suspected persons or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the persons or objects of search, arrest, or seizure; and no warrant ought to be issued: but in cases and with the formalities, prescribed by law.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 to change order of words.

[Art.] 20. [Jury Trial in Civil Causes.] In all controversies concerning property, and in all suits between two or more persons except those in which another practice is and has been customary and except those in which the value in controversy does not exceed $1,500 and no title to real estate is involved, the parties have a right to a trial by jury. This method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases* arising on the high seas and in cases relating to mariners' wages, the legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it.

June 2, 1784

Amended in 1877 to prohibit jury trials unless the amount in controversy exceeds $100.

Amended in 1960 to increase the amount to $500 before a jury trial may be requested.

*"Cases" appears in 1792 parchment copy of constitution. Original constitution had "causes."

Amended in 1988 to change $500 to $1,500

[Art.] 21. [Jurors; Compensation.] In order to reap the fullest advantage of the inestimable privilege of the trial by jury, great care ought to be taken, that none but qualified persons should be appointed to serve; and such ought to be fully compensated for their travel, time and attendance.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 22. [Free Speech; Liberty of the Press.] Free speech and liberty of the press are essential to the security of freedom in a state: They ought, therefore, to be inviolably preserved.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1968 to include free speech.

[Art.] 23. [Retrospective Laws Prohibited.] Retrospective laws are highly injurious, oppressive, and unjust. No such laws, therefore, should be made, either for the decision of civil causes, or the punishment of offenses.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 24. [Militia.] A well regulated militia is the proper, natural, and sure defense, of a state.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 25. [Standing Armies.] Standing armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised, or kept up, without the consent of the legislature.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 26. [Military Subject to Civil Power.] In all cases, and at all times, the military ought to be under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 27. [Quartering of Soldiers.] No soldier in time of peace, shall be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner; and in time of war, such quarters ought not to be made but by the civil authorities in a manner ordained by the legislature.

June 2, 1784

Amended in 1980 substituting "authorities" for "magistrate."

[Art.] 28. [Taxes, by Whom Levied.] No subsidy, charge, tax, impost, or duty, shall be established, fixed, laid, or levied, under any pretext whatsoever, without the consent of the people, or their representatives in the legislature, or authority derived from that body.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 28-a. [Mandated Programs.] The state shall not mandate or assign any new, expanded or modified programs or responsibilities to any political subdivision in such a way as to necessitate additional local expenditures by the political subdivision unless such programs or responsibilities are fully funded by the state or unless such programs or responsibilities are approved for funding by a vote of the local legislative body of the political subdivision.

November 28, 1984

[Art.] 29. [Suspension of Laws by Legislature Only.] The power of suspending the laws, or the execution of them, ought never to be exercised but by the legislature, or by authority derived therefrom, to be exercised in such particular cases only as the legislature shall expressly provide for.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 30. [Freedom of Speech.] The freedom of deliberation, speech, and debate, in either house of the legislature, is so essential to the rights of the people, that it cannot be the foundation of any action, complaint, or prosecution, in any other court or place whatsoever.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 31. [Meetings of Legislature, for What Purposes.] The legislature shall assemble for the redress of public grievances and for making such laws as the public good may require.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 generally rewording sentence and omitting "for correcting, strengthening and confirming the laws."

[Art.] 32. [Rights of Assembly, Instruction, and Petition.] The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceable manner, to assemble and consult upon the common good, give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by way of petition or remonstrance, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 33. [Excessive Bail, Fines, and Punishments Prohibited.] No magistrate, or court of law, shall demand excessive bail or sureties, impose excessive fines, or inflict cruel or unusual punishments.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 34. [Martial Law Limited.] No person can, in any case, be subjected to law martial, or to any pains or penalties by virtue of that law, except those employed in the army or navy, and except the militia in actual service, but by authority of the legislature.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 35. [The Judiciary; Tenure of Office, etc.] It is essential to the preservation of the rights of every individual, his life, liberty, property, and character, that there be an impartial interpretation of the laws, and administration of justice. It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. It is therefore not only the best policy, but for the security of the rights of the people, that the judges of the supreme judicial court should hold their offices so long as they behave well; subject, however, to such limitations, on account of age, as may be provided by the constitution of the state; and that they should have honorable salaries, ascertained and established by standing laws.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 to provide for age limitation as provided by the constitution.

[Art.] 36. [Pensions.] Economy being a most essential virtue in all states, especially in a young one, no pension shall be granted, but in consideration of actual services; and such pensions ought to be granted with great caution, by the legislature, and never for more than one year at a time.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 36-a [Use of Retirement Funds.] The employer contributions certified as payable to the New Hampshire retirement system or any successor system to fund the system's liabilities, as shall be determined by sound actuarial valuation and practice, independent of the executive office, shall be appropriated each fiscal year to the same extent as is certified. All of the assets and proceeds, and income therefrom, of the New Hampshire retirement system and of any and all other retirement systems for public officers and employees operated by the state or by any of its political subdivisions, and of any successor system, and all contributions and payments made to any such system to provide for retirement and related benefits shall be held, invested or disbursed as in trust for the exclusive purpose of providing for such benefits and shall not be encumbered for, or diverted to, any other purposes.

November 28, 1984

[Art.] 37. [Separation of Powers.] In the government of this state, the three essential powers thereof, to wit, the legislative, executive, and judicial, ought to be kept as separate from, and independent of, each other, as the nature of a free government will admit, or as is consistent with that chain of connection that binds the whole fabric of the constitution in one indissoluble bond of union and amity.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 38. [Social Virtues Inculcated.] A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution, and a constant adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry, frugality, and all the social virtues, are indispensably necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and good government; the people ought, therefore, to have a particular regard to all those principles in the choice of their officers and representatives, and they have a right to require of their lawgivers and magistrates, an exact and constant observance of them, in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of government.

June 2, 1784

[Art.] 39. [Changes in Town and City Charters, Referendum Required.] No law changing the charter or form of government of a particular city or town shall be enacted by the legislature except to become effective upon the approval of the voters of such city or town upon a referendum to be provided for in said law.

The legislature may by general law authorize cities and towns to adopt or amend their charters or forms of government in any way which is not in conflict with general law, provided that such charters or amendments shall become effective only upon the approval of the voters of each such city or town on a referendum.

November 16, 1966

PART SECOND

FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Article 1. [Name of Body Politic.] The people inhabiting the territory formerly called the province of New Hampshire, do hereby solemnly and mutually agree with each other, to form themselves into a free, sovereign and independent body-politic, or state, by the name of THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.
June 2, 1784

GENERAL COURT

[Art.] 2. [Legislature, How Constituted.] The supreme legislative power, within this state, shall be vested in the senate and house of representatives, each of which shall have a negative on the other.
June 2, 1784

[Art.] 3. [General Court, When to Meet and Dissolve.] The senate and house shall assemble biennially on the first Wednesday of December for organizational purposes in even numbered years, and shall assemble annually on the first Wednesday following the first Tuesday in January, and at such other times as they may judge necessary; and shall dissolve and be dissolved at 12:01 A.M. on the first Wednesday of December in even numbered years and shall be styled THE GENERAL COURT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1877 changing annual sessions to biennial sessions.

Amended 1889 calling for the legislature to meet in January instead of June.

1966 amendment permitting annual sessions was ruled invalid in Gerber v. King, 107 NH 495.

Amended 1974 to permit organizational meetings in December and the January meeting to be on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday.

Amended 1984 changing biennial sessions to annual sessions.

[Art.] 4. [Power of General Court to Establish Courts.] The general court (except as otherwise provided by Article 72-a of Part 2) shall forever have full power and authority to erect and constitute judicatories and courts of record, or other courts, to be holden, in the name of the state, for the hearing, trying, and determining, all manner of crimes, offenses, pleas, processes, complaints, action, causes, matters and things whatsoever arising or happening within this state, or between or concerning persons inhabiting or residing, or brought, within the same, whether the same be criminal or civil, or whether the crimes be capital, or not capital, and whether the said pleas be real, personal or mixed, and for the awarding and issuing execution thereon. To which courts and judicatories, are hereby given and granted, full power and authority, from time to time, to administer oaths or affirmations, for the better discovery of truth in any matter in controversy, or depending before them.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1966 to add exception relating to Art. 72-a, Part 2.

[Art.] 5. [Power to Make Laws, Elect Officers, Define Their Powers and Duties, Impose Fines and Assess Taxes; Prohibited from Authorizing Towns to Aid Certain Corporations.] And farther, full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the said general court, from time to time, to make, ordain, and establish, all manner of wholesome and reasonable orders, laws, statutes, ordinances, directions, and instructions, either with penalties, or without, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution, as they may judge for the benefit and welfare of this state, and for the governing and ordering thereof, and of the subjects of the same, for the necessary support and defense of the government thereof, and to name and settle biennially, or provide by fixed laws for the naming and settling, all civil officers within this state, such officers excepted, the election and appointment of whom are hereafter in this form of government otherwise provided for; and to set forth the several duties, powers, and limits, of the several civil and military officers of this state, and the forms of such oaths or affirmations as shall be respectively administered unto them, for the execution of their several offices and places, so as the same be not repugnant or contrary to this constitution; and also to impose fines, mulcts, imprisonments, and other punishments, and to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessments, rates, and taxes, upon all the inhabitants of, and residents within, the said state; and upon all estates within the same; to be issued and disposed of by warrant, under the hand of the governor of this state for the time being, with the advice and consent of the council, for the public service, in the necessary defense and support of the government of this state, and the protection and preservation of the subjects thereof, according to such acts as are, or shall be, in force within the same; provided that the general court shall not authorize any town to loan or give its money or credit directly or indirectly for the benefit of any corporation having for its object a dividend of profits or in any way aid the same by taking its stocks or bonds. For the purpose of encouraging conservation of the forest resources of the state, the general court may provide for special assessments, rates and taxes on growing wood and timber.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 changing "president" to "governor."

Amended 1877 changing "annually" to "biennially." Also amended to prohibit towns and cities from loaning money or credit to corporations.

Amended 1942 to permit a timber tax.

[Art.] 5-a. [Continuity of Government in Case of Enemy Attack.] Notwithstanding any general or special provision of this constitution, the general court, in order to insure continuity of state and local government operations in periods of emergency resulting from disasters caused by enemy attack, shall have the power and the immediate duty to provide for prompt and temporary succession to the powers and duties of public offices, of whatever nature and whether filled by election or appointment, the incumbents of which may become unavailable for carrying on the powers and duties of such offices, and to adopt such other measures as may be necessary and proper for insuring the continuity of governmental operations including but not limited to the financing thereof. In the exercise of the powers hereby conferred the general court shall in all respects conform to the requirements of this constitution except to the extent that in the judgment of the general court so to do would be impracticable or would admit of undue delay.

November 30, 1942

[Art.] 5-b. [Power to Provide for Tax Valuations Based on Use.] The general court may provide for the assessment of any class of real estate at valuations based upon the current use thereof.

November 15, 1968

[Art.] 6. [Valuation and Taxation.] The public charges of government, or any part thereof, may be raised by taxation upon polls, estates, and other classes of property, including franchises and property when passing by will or inheritance; and there shall be a valuation of the estates within the state taken anew once in every five years, at least, and as much oftener as the general court shall order.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1903 to permit taxes on other classes of property including franchises and property passing by inheritances.

[Art.] 6-a. [Use of Certain Revenues Restricted to Highways.] All revenue in excess of the necessary cost of collection and administration accruing to the state from registration fees, operators' licenses, gasoline road tolls or any other special charges or taxes with respect to the operation of motor vehicles or the sale or consumption of motor vehicle fuels shall be appropriated and used exclusively for the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of public highways within this state, including the supervision of traffic thereon and payment of the interest and principal of obligations incurred for said purposes; and no part of such revenues shall, by transfer of funds or otherwise, be diverted to any other purpose whatsoever.

November 29, 1938

[Art.] 6-b. [Use of Lottery Revenues Restricted to Educational Purposes.] All moneys received from a state-run lottery and all the interest received on such moneys shall, after deducting the necessary costs of administration, be appropriated and used exclusively for the school districts of the state. [Art.] 7. [Members of Legislature Not to Take Fees or Act as Counsel.] No member of the general court shall take fees, be of counsel, or act as advocate, in any cause before either branch of the legislature; and upon due proof thereof, such member shall forfeit his seat in the legislature.

September 5, 1792

[Art.] 8. [Open Sessions of Legislature.] The doors of the galleries, of each house of the legislature, shall be kept open to all persons who behave decently, except when the welfare of the state, in the opinion of either branch, shall require secrecy.

September 5, 1792

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

[Art.] 9. [Representatives Elected Every Second Year; Apportionment of Representatives.] There shall be in the legislature of this state a house of representatives, biennially elected and founded on principles of equality, and representation therein shall be as equal as circumstances will admit. The whole number of representatives to be chosen from the towns, wards, places, and representative districts thereof established hereunder, shall be not less than three hundred seventy-five or more than four hundred. As soon as possible after the convening of the next regular session of the legislature, and at the session in 1971, and every ten years thereafter, the legislature shall make an apportionment of representatives according to the last general census of the inhabitants of the state taken by authority of the United States or of this state. In making such apportionment, no town, ward or place shall be divided nor the boundaries thereof altered.

June 2, 1784

Amended 1877 three times providing for biennial elections; increasing representation from 150 rateable polls to 600; prohibiting towns and wards from being altered so as to increase representation.

Amended 1942 limiting size of House to between 375 and 400.

Amended 1964 providing for equal representation.

[Art.] 9-a. [Legislative Adjustments of Census with Reference to Non-Residents.] The general court shall have the power to provide by statute for making suitable adjustments to the general census of the inhabitants of the state taken by the authority of the United States or of this state on account of non-residents temporarily residing in this state.

November 30, 1960

[Art.] 10. [Representation of Small Towns.] (Repealed)

[Art.] 49. [President of Senate, etc., To Act as Governor When Office Vacant; Speaker of House to Act When Office of President of Senate Is also Vacant.] In the event of the death, resignation, removal from office, failure to qualify, physical or mental incapacity, absence from the state, or other incapacity of the governor, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor until the vacancy is filled or the incapacity is removed; and if the president of the senate, for any of the above-named causes, shall become incapable of performing the duties of governor, the same shall devolve upon the speaker of the house of representatives, for the time being, or in the case of the like incapacity of the speaker, upon the secretary of state, or in case of his like incapacity, upon the state treasurer, each of whom, in that order, shall act as governor, as hereinabove provided, until the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed. Whenever a vacancy for the duration or remainder of the governor's term of office occurs before the commencement of the last year of such term, a special election for governor shall take place to fill the vacancy, as provided by law. Whenever the speaker of the house acts as governor, he shall act as such only until such time as the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed in either the office of governor or of president of the senate, whichever occurs first. Whenever either the secretary of state or the treasurer acts as governor, he shall act as such only until such time as the vacancy is filled or the incapacity removed in the offices of governor, of president of the senate or of speaker of the house, whichever occurs first. While acting as governor under this article, the president of the senate, speaker of the house, secretary of state or state treasurer, as the case may be, shall be styled Acting Governor, shall not be required to take an additional oath of office, shall have and exercise all the powers, duties and authorities of, and receive compensation equal to that of the office of governor; and the capacity of each such officer to serve as president of the senate as well as senator, speaker of the house of representatives as well as representative, secretary of state, or state treasurer, as the case may be, or to receive the compensation of such office, shall be suspended only. While the governor or an acting governor is absent from the state on official business, he shall have the power and authority to transact such business. June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 changing some wording and providing that the senate president acting as governor could not hold his office in the senate.

Amended 1889 providing for the speaker of the house to act as governor.

Amended 1956 providing that the governor while absent from the state has authority to transact such business.

Amended 1968 providing for succession through secretary of state and state treasurer, but only until a new senate president or house speaker is elected.

Amended 1984 rewording section generally to include incapacity, new election if vacancy occurs before last year of the term, compensation of acting governor to equal that of governor, and suspension of senate president acting as a senator or speaker to act as a representative while serving as acting governor.

[Art.] 49-a [Prolonged Failure to Qualify; Vacancy in Office of Governor Due to Physical or Mental Incapacity, etc.] Whenever the governor transmits to the secretary of state and president of the senate his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office by reason of physical or mental incapacity and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor as provided in article 49, subject to the succession provisions therein set forth. Whenever it reasonably appears to the attorney general and a majority of the council that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office by reason of physical or mental incapacity, but the governor is unwilling or unable to transmit his written declaration to such effect as above provided, the attorney general shall file a petition for declaratory judgment in the supreme court requesting a judicial determination of the ability of the governor to discharge the powers and duties of his office. After notice and hearing, the justices of the supreme court shall render such judgment as they find warranted by a preponderance of the evidence; and, if the court holds that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the president of the senate, for the time being, shall act as governor as provided in article 49, subject to the succession provisions therein set forth, until such time as the disability of the governor is removed or a newly elected governor is inaugurated. Such disability, once determined by the supreme court, may be removed upon petition for declaratory judgment to the supreme court by the governor if the court finds, after notice and hearing, by a preponderance of the evidence that the governor is able to discharge the powers and duties of his office. Whenever such disability of the governor, as determined by his written declaration or by judgment of the supreme court, has continued for a period of 6 months, the general court may, by concurrent resolution adopted by both houses, declare the office of governor vacant. Whenever the governor-elect fails to qualify by reason of physical or mental incapacity or any cause other than death or resignation, for a period of 6 months following the inauguration date established by this constitution, the general court may, by concurrent resolution adopted by both houses, declare the office of governor vacant. The provisions of article 49 shall govern the filling of such vacancy, either by special election or continued service of an acting governor. If the general court is not in session when any such 6-month period expires, the acting governor, upon written request of at least 1/4 of the members of each house, shall convene the general court in special session for the sole purpose of considering and acting on the question whether to declare a vacancy in the office of governor under this article.

[Art.] 61. [Vacancies, How Filled, if No Choice.] And the person having a plurality of votes in any county, shall be considered as duly elected a councilor: But if no person shall have a plurality of votes in any county, the senate and house of representatives shall take the names of the two persons who have the highest number of votes in each county, and not elected, and out of those two shall elect by joint ballot, the councilor wanted for such county, and the qualifications for councilors shall be the same as for senator.

September 5, 1792

Amended 1912 substituting plurality for majority.

[Art.] 62. [Subsequent Vacancies; Governor to Convene; Duties.] If any person thus chosen a councilor, shall be elected governor or member of either branch of the legislature, and shall accept the trust; or if any person elected a councilor, shall refuse to accept the office, or in case of the death, resignation, or removal of any councilor out of the state, the governor may issue a precept for the election of a new councilor in that county where such vacancy shall happen and the choice shall be in the same manner as before directed. And the governor shall have full power and authority to convene the council, from time to time, at his discretion; and, with them, or the majority of them, may and shall, from time to time hold a council, for ordering and directing the affairs of the state, according to the laws of the land.

September 5, 1792

[Art.] 63. [Impeachment of Councilors.] The members of the council may be impeached by the house, and tried by the senate for bribery, corruption, malpractice, or maladministration.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 changing wording generally and changing mal-conduct to bribery, corruption, malpractice, or maladministration.

[Art.] 64. [Secretary to Record Proceedings of Council.] The resolutions and advice of the council shall be recorded by the secretary, in a register, and signed by all members present agreeing thereto; and this record may be called for at any time, by either house of the legislature; and any member of the council may enter his opinion contrary to the resolutions of the majority, with the reasons for such opinion.
June 2, 1784

Amended 1792 adding phrases: "by the secretary," "agreeing thereto," and "with the reasons for such opinion."

[Art.] 65. [Councilor Districts Provided for.] The legislature may, if the public good shall hereafter require it, divide the state into five districts, as nearly equal as may be, governing themselves by the number of population, each district to elect a councilor: And, in case of such division, the manner of the choice shall be conformable to the present mode of election in counties.
September 5, 1792

Amended 1912 substituting population for rateable polls.

[Art.] 66. [Elections by Legislature May Be Adjourned From Day to Day; Order Thereof.] And, whereas the elections, appointed to be made by this constitution on the first Wednesday of January biennially, by the two houses of the legislature, may not be completed on that day, the said elections may be adjourned from day to day, until the same be completed; and the order of the elections shall be as follows - the vacancies in the senate, if any, shall be first filled up: The governor shall then be elected, provided there shall be no choice of him by the people: And afterwards, the two houses shall proceed to fill up the vacancy, if any, in the council.

(b) The general court, by an affirmative vote of a majority of all members of both houses voting separately, may at any time submit the question "Shall there be a convention to amend or revise the constitution?" to the qualified voters of the state. If the question of holding a convention is not submitted to the people at some time during any period of ten years, it shall be submitted by the secretary of state at the general election in the tenth year following the last submission. If a majority of the qualified voters voting on the question of holding a convention approves it, delegates shall be chosen at the next regular general election, or at such earlier time as the legislature may provide, in the same manner and proportion as the representatives to the general court are chosen. The delegates so chosen shall convene at such time as the legislature may direct and may recess from time to time and make such rules for the conduct of their convention as they may determine.

(c) The constitutional convention may propose amendments by a three-fifths vote of the entire membership of the convention.

Each constitutional amendment proposed by the general court or by a constitutional convention shall be submitted to the voters by written ballot at the next biennial November election and shall become a part of the Constitution only after approval by two-thirds of the qualified voters present and voting on the subject in the towns, wards, and unincorporated places.

September 5, 1792. Question of calling a convention to be submitted every 7 years.

Amended 1964 twice changing submission of question on calling a convention to every 10 years rather than 7 and providing that the general court could propose amendments.

Amended 1980 twice incorporating provisions of repealed Art. 99 and requiring all proposals be submitted at the next biennial November election.

[Art.] 101. [Enrollment of Constitution.] This form of government shall be enrolled on parchment, and deposited in the secretary's office, and be a part of the laws of the land and printed copies thereof shall be prefixed to the books containing the laws of this state, in all future editions thereof.

Monier was acting governor until November 30, 1982 when the legislature dissolved at midnight. Secretary of State William M. Gardner was acting governor on December 1, 1982 until the members of the new senate and house of representatives were sworn in and the senate elected its new president Vesta M. Roy. She immediately became acting governor and served in that capacity until January 6, 1983 when John H. Sununu was sworn into office.
21. Gregg resigned effective January 2, 1993 at 11:59 p.m. so that he could be sworn in as Senator when the United States Senate convened on January 3, 1993.

EXECUTIVE COUNCILORS

Article 60 of the second part of the constitution provides for an executive council of five members to advise and act with the governor. Before the constitution there was a council both under the temporary constitution of the Revolution and under the provincial government. Since 1913 councilors have been elected by plurality vote to represent population but previously to that they were elected by majority vote to represent property. In the colonial days councilors were appointed.

The following is a list of all the councilors during this century giving the name and address of each and the years they served.

THE SENATE

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

UNITED STATES SENATORS FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

The following is a list of the senators from this state, and the years of service. One of the first senators, John Langdon, was chosen president pro tempore of the first national senate in 1789 and presided over that body until Vice-President John Adams qualified as president of the senate by virtue of his office as vice-president. Senator Langdon was again elected president in the second senate in 1792-3. Senator Samuel Livermore was elected president of the fourth senate in 1795-6 and of the sixth senate in 1799-1800. Senator Daniel Clark was elected president of the thirty-eighth senate in 1963-4. Senator Jacob H. Gallinger was elected president of the sixty-second senate in 1911-13. Senator George H. Moses was elected president pro tempore in 1925, re-elected 1927, 1929, 1931.

Senator Styles Bridges was elected president pro tempore of the eighty-third senate, 1953-1954.

† First election results showed Louis C. Wyman, Manchester, the winner—recount requested by John A. Durkin, Manchester, resulted in favor of Durkin—Appeal to the Ballot Law Commission resulted in favor of Wyman—appeal to the U.S. Senate by Durkin. U.S. Senate sent the appeal back to the State of New Hampshire, declaring a vacancy as of August 8, 1975 and under Chapter I, Laws of 1975, a special election was held September 16, 1975, in which the final results were:

|              |               |
|--------------|---------------|
| Durkin ..... | 140,778 votes |
| Wyman .....  | 113,007 votes |

In this period, Norris Cotton, Lebanon, was appointed U.S. Senator from August 8, 1975 until Durkin was sworn into office by the U.S. Senate, September 18, 1975.

*Died in office. Irvin W. Drew, Lancaster, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1918 November election, when George H. Moses was elected for the unexpired term of Senator Gallinger.

**Died in office. Robert W. Upton, Concord, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1954 November election, when Norris Cotton was elected for the unexpired term.

***Died in office. Maurice J. Murphy, Jr., Portsmouth, appointed by the Governor to serve until the 1962 November election, when Thomas J. McIntyre was elected for the unexpired term of Senator Bridges.

****Norris Cotton retired three days before his final term officially ended, and Louis C. Wyman was appointed by Governor Thomson to serve these final three days.

*****Warren B. Rudman, senator-elect, was appointed U.S. Senator on December 29, 1980 following the resignation of John A. Durkin.

‡ Bob Smith, senator-elect was sworn in as U.S. Senator by U.S. Supreme Court Justice David Souter on December 7, 1990 following the resignation of Gordon J. Humphrey. Senator Humphrey resigned his seat early so that he could be sworn in as State Senator on December 5, 1990 and cast his ballot for senate president.

MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE

Under the constitutional apportionment which provided for a house of representatives in congress, New Hampshire was allotted three seats. The national census of 1790 (first census) increased this to four, the second census of 1800 to five and the third census of 1810 to six seats. The census of 1830 reduced it to five, that of 1840 to four and that of 1850 to three. The census of 1870 reduced it to two, but the seat taken away was restored until the next census of 1880; since then the state has had two representatives.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Articles 67 and 68 of the second part of the constitution provide for a department of state with a secretary of state who is elected biennially by the legislature and a deputy secretary of state appointed by the secretary. In the colonial period there was a secretary appointed by the chief executive, but no deputy. During the revolutionary period and under the constitution of 1784 the secretary was chosen by the legislature and given authority to have several deputies, but in 1793 the constitution was changed to provide for a single deputy.

The following is a list of secretaries of state from the beginning, together with the term which each served and a list of deputy secretaries.

THE TREASURY

Article 67 of the second part of the constitution provides for a treasurer who is elected biennially by the legislature. In the colonial period the treasurer was appointed by the chief executive and frequently the same man was secretary of the province and treasurer. In 1891 the legislature created the office of deputy treasurer, and in 1983 the office of chief deputy treasurer was created.

The following is a list of the treasurers from the beginning and the term of office each served.

RECOUNTS AFTER THE PRIMARY

After the Primary, three requests for recounts were received - two Republican and one Libertarian. There was a change in nominee as a result of the recount for Republican Strafford County Sheriff. An appeal was made to the Ballot Law Commission after this recount which did not result in a change of nominee. There was no change in the nominees as a result of the other two recounts.

Following, in the first column are the figures as officially returned to the Secretary of State. The second column contains the recount figures. The nominees are indicated by asterisks.

RECOUNTS AFTER THE GENERAL ELECTION

Eighteen requests for recounts were received after the general election. Two recounts resulted in a change of winners - Rockingham County Treasurer and State Representative from Hillsborough District No. 40. The recounts for State Senate District No. 6, Cheshire County Treasurer, and Strafford County Treasurer were called off before they were completed.

An appeal was made to the Ballot Law Commission after the recount in Hillsborough District No. 24 which did not result in a change of winners.

Below, in the first column are the figures as officially returned to the Secretary of State. The second column contains the recount figures. The persons elected are designated by asterisks.

NEW HAMPSHIRE ORDER OF WOMEN LEGISLATORS

Submitted by Janet R. Pelley, President.

1921 - 1996

Committee to celebrate the 75th anniversary: Janet R. Pelley, President, Hon. Gertrude Pearson, Legislative Director, June Austin, Corporate Director, Hon. Juanita Bell, Hon. Julie Brown, Hon. Ruth Griffin, Hon. Alice Tirrell Knight, Hon. Emma Wheeler and Hon. Jean White.

Women first voted in state elections in 1920 and elected Jessie Doe (R-Rollinsford) and Dr. Mary L. R. Farnum (D-Boscawen) on write-in ballots.

State elections are held every two years for 24 senators and 400 representatives who serve two year terms for a salary of $100 a year. The New Hampshire House of Representatives is the third largest democratically elected bodies in the world. Britain's House of Parliament is the largest, The Congress of the United States is second, and New Hampshire General Court is third.

787 women have served in the New Hampshire General Court:

43 in the Senate

778 in the House

(34 in the Senate and House)

New Hampshire's First Ladies:

Hon. Jeanne Shaheen

Hon. Dudley Dudley

Hon. Vesta Roy

Hon. Donna Sytek

Hon. Georgie Thomas

Hon. Gloria Randlett

Hon. Karen Wadsworth

Governor

Executive Councilor

President of the Senate

Speaker of the House of Representatives

State Treasurer

Clerk of the State Senate

Clerk of the House of Representatives

New Hampshire women legislators have come a long way since 1921. Lt. Governor Rosemarie Myrdal of North Dakota stated it best because she "believes that as a part of an ongoing process in political life we need to LISTEN! LEARN! LEAD!

The 1995-96 New Hampshire Order of Women Legislators received permission from Elizabeth M. Cox to use excerpts from her book Women State and Territorial Legislators, 1895-1995.
